PIRATES OF PENZANCE.
Congratulations to the Philharmonic Society for the excellent production of "The Pirates of Penzance" given at the King's Theatre on Tuesday night.

When our local amateurs take the trouble to slave over rehearsal, choose charming dresses, devise attractive scenery, and stage a first-rate show, it really seems too bad that the Hong Kong public are so reluctant to give their full support. It was a thousand pities that there was such a small audience for the first performance of this delightful little operette. One can only suppose that everyone was waiting to hear what everyone else said about it. So let us inform them, right here and now, that it is a delightful production and goes splendidly from start to finish. The cast is well-chosen and every member of it does his and her best to make the show a success.

"The Phil" may be congratulated on having the best chorus heard here for ages, and their bright acting and delightful singing alone would make it worth seeing. The girls are charmingly dressed too, the pretty poke bonnets of the period and dainty, frilled frocks in apple-green and lavender, in rose-pink and speedwell-blue, look delicious against the rugged Cornish rocks, while accompaniments to songs as ever heard at a Philharmonic performance. To ears and senses-jaded by the intricate harmonies of modern music, and the intricate rhythms of Jazz the tuneful music of Sullivan comes with a freshness and spontaneity that is most delightful and never stale. Though the same cannot be said, alas, for the old-fashioned jokes of Gilbert.

It is too bad that Gilbert and Sullivan's performances are so

Masters and Miss Scott Harston all-looked very bright and sparkling while Mrs. Stuart Smith looked very pretty in a Chinese coat embroidered in white and blue. Most of the women were wrapped up in furs, however. White fur coats are all the rage at the moment and are flattering to everyone. In fact, (as someone remarked the other day,....) "it is quite impossible not to look and feel your best with a white fur evening coat."

Mr. Li Chor Chi never misses a musical event and arrived in good time with a friend. Mrs. Cornaby was one of the charming people selling programmes and the thanks of the Society are due to Messdames F. C. Cleme and J. H. Shaw, Messrs. D. E. Wiltshire, J.C.M. Graham, J. W. Baldwin, A. M. Bowes-Smith and C. E. Stone. The Commander H.M.S. Tamar, Hon. Inspector General of Police, Peak Tramway Co., Ltd., The Star Ferry Co., Ltd., Messrs. Montreil & Co., Ltd., The Tsang Fook Piano Co., and the Press of the Colony.

the Pirates with their swords and scarves and kilts uniforms make a striking contrast. We must give special praise to the beautiful grouping in the moonlight of the second act.

The Pirates of Penzance is full of good choruses, and the stirring "Taranterah" of the Police Force (led by Sergeant Goble) came in for the usual salvo of applause.

It is just six years since this operette was last performed in Hong Kong and we rather think that Mrs. Bowes-Smith is the only principal left of the original cast. As was to be expected, she gave a spirited performance of her part of "Mabel," singing and acting with charm and confidence throughout. Her duet with Frederick in the moonlight was sweetly sung and she led the "finale" at the end, to a triumphant climax.

Lt.-Comdr. E.C.H. Branson looked nice as Frederick and his diction was so very clear that we must forgive him for not giving a very robust interpretation of his difficult part.

B. O. Kime made a vigorous and jolly Pirate-Chief and W. H. Evans Thomas was very good indeed as the "Modern Major-General" and sang his songs splendidly. We want to ask for just a little more fire and fun from R. S. Spenceclay as "Samuel."

Mrs. H. Mathieson is a firm favourite here and has many past successes in this Society to her credit. The part of "Ruth" does not, perhaps, give her quite so much scope as usual, but she made the very most of it, and had a warm welcome. The parts of Edith, Kate, and Isabel were prettily played by Mrs. Starling, Mrs. Frost, and Miss D. Hunt who had great fun over the amusing choruses "How Beautifully Blue the sky."

More than a word of praise is due to the exceptionally good playing of the orchestra under the able direction of Mr. Trow. They played as good sympathetic hedged about with tradition—that musical societies still regard them as sacrosanct, and dare not live-up to the dialogue by an occasional appropriate topical allusion. If Gilbert were with us here to-day he would probably re-dress his chorus as a party of girl-guides being entertained to a picnic by an even more modern "Major-General" and bring his pirates up, in junks to Sai-Wan beach. He could dress his hero as another Cavalier Yeo, trying to expiate his sins by joining the Canton Police Force, and he would most certainly bring the maidens out by moonlight with electric torches instead of candles; and garbed in snappy pyjamas from some silk-store.

Now then, all you bright "producers"..... What about a revival up-to-date..... I think we may safely prophesy a popular success..... and the shades of Gilbert and Sullivan would probably smile a ghostly smile of approbation. Meanwhile don't forget there are further performances on February 9th and 10th when we hope that full houses will be the reward of this most excellent production.

THE AUDIENCE.
The audience was not large on the first night they were not lacking in appreciation. I noticed Commodore and Mrs. Elliot at the front row. Mr. and Mrs. Tim Wright were a little further back with Mr. and Mrs. Whitlam. Mrs. Lambert in blue was with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd. Mrs. Geoffrey Morgan looked charming in geranium-red. Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Richards were listening with keen interest. Both are notable members of the Philharmonic Society and have played many roles at one time and another. Rumour says that Mrs. Richards was responsible for the very charming dresses of the chorus on this occasion.

GROUNDING OF HAINING

Cargo Transferred To Other Steamers

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Swatow, February 6.
A sad mishap has occurred to the Douglas steamer "Haining" which went aground off Double Island inside the harbour limit, last Saturday evening.

The "Haining" left Swatow for Hongkong at 7 p.m. in pitch dark on Saturday and went aground at 7.30. The cause is reported to be that the officer on watch at the time mistook the fishing stakes lights, thereby causing the accident.

Where she lies is a dangerous spot, there being numerous rocks on the portside. It is gratifying that the "Haining" is not holed and not making water.

The "Haining," which also belongs to the Douglas Line, and which left earlier the same day for Amoy, suddenly put back to port and stood by. An attempt was made by her to pull off the "Haining" but it proved fruitless.

All her cargo has been transferred to the "Svale" and "Haining," both of the same line, but the passengers were transferred to the m.s. "Cremor" and m.v. "Mutanam," which left for Hongkong on Sunday.

Mr. Williamson, one of the directors of the Douglas S.S. Co., Ltd. came up from Hongkong yesterday.

Capt. Walker, master of the "Haining," though on board at the time, was not in command, being ill with fever. He was taken off the ship and left for Hongkong by the "Cremor" on Sunday.

The "Haining" like the "Haining" and "Haiyang" is a well-known Douglas steamer. They all maintain a regular run between the coast ports. The "Svale" plies exclusively between Hongkong and Swatow.

Laundrying Rayon Fabrics

When laundrying rayon fabrics use lukewarm water and bland soap suds. Never twist, scrub or wring the material. Squeeze the sopsuds through the cloth. Rinse several times and roll in a towel to partially to dry. Press with a hot too hot iron.

Stuffed Baked Tomatoes.
Four large smooth tomatoes, 2 cups coarse stale bread crumbs, 1 cup diced celery, 1-2 cup shell- ed and blanched almonds, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, few drops onion juice, 2 tablespoons melted butter, sugar, parsley.

Cut a slice from the stem end of tomatoes and scoop out seeds, taking care not to injure shape of tomatoes. Sprinkle inside with salt and invert to drain. Mix bread crumbs, celery and nuts. Add seasoning and melted butter and enough tomato pulp to make slightly moist. Fill each tomato with stuffing and arrange in a shallow baking pan. Cover tops with fine bread crumbs and put a dot of butter in the center of each. Bake about thirty minutes in a moderate oven. When done slide a spatula or broad cake turner under tomato and lift carefully to not platter. Garnish with parsley and serve.

Chocolate Cake with Icings

I have been asked for a recipe for a chocolate cake, and here it is.

Cream a quarter of a pound of butter, add three ounces of castor sugar, cream again, and beat in three large egg-yolks, one by one. Sieve six ounces of flour with one ounce of ground rice, half a teaspoonful of baking-powder and a level tablespoonful of cocoa, and mix these in alternately with two ounces of chocolate which has been finely scraped with a knife, dissolved in three good table-spoonfuls of milk and allowed to cool.

Flavour further with half a teaspoonful of vanilla essence, and finely fold in the three whites stiffly whisked. Line a six-inch cake tin with paper, and pour the mixture into it. Bake in a moderate oven for about an hour.

When the cake is cold, put it away until next day, then cut it across, sandwich it with chocolate butter icing, and, lastly, coat it with chocolate glaze icing, decorating this with the remainder of the butter icing. These icings are made as follows:

Chocolate Butter Icing
Put a couple of ounces of plain chocolate scraped with a knife into a small saucepan with three tablespoonfuls of water. Let it dissolve slowly, then boil it till it reduces to the consistency of smooth butter. When it is cool, add a few drops of vanilla essence. Meanwhile, cream thoroughly a couple of ounces of fresh butter, adding close on a quarter of a pound of finely-sieved icing sugar. The sugar should be added by spoonfuls, and each beaten in well. In this way you will avoid making the butter too heavy. Add your cool chocolate preparation to this, and your butter icing is ready.

Chocolate Glaze Icing
Put three ounces of finely scraped plain chocolate into a small saucepan with a scant half-gill of water. Dissolve it gently, and then bring just to boiling point. Let it cool, and add a tiny piece of fresh butter. Now beat in half a pound of finely sieved icing sugar by degrees, beating thoroughly to make the icing glossy. A little tepid water may be added if it is too thick, or more icing sugar, if too thin.

When you have finished heating in the sugar, add half a tea-spoonful of vanilla essence, and warm the icing very slightly, stirring gently so that the bubbles caused by the beating may be dispelled.

Of course, some people like a plain cake, without icing. If so, they will find this mixture quite good.

DINNER

French Lentil Soup

Pigeons a la Godard

Raisin Dumplings
Melted Butter Sauce
Stuffed Cucumbers

Select large cucumbers and cut them into pieces about 2 1/2 inches long. Take out the centre with a cutter, and fill them with sausage meat. Braise the cucumbers slowly for about 20 minutes. Dress on croutons of fried bread brushed over with freshly made glaze. Have some round pieces of ham and put on as lids, and pour brown sauce round. A few tomatoes au gratin placed round the dish will greatly add to the appearance of this entree.

Lemon Souffle

1 oz. butter, 1 oz. flour, 1 gill milk, 3 eggs, lemon, and about about 1 oz. sugar. Melt the butter, stir in the flour, when blended add the milk, sugar, the lemon rind grated, and stir until boiling. Remove from stove, beat in the yolks of eggs, whisk the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, and stir lightly in. Pour the mixture into a well-greased plain mould and steam very slowly for about 40 minutes. Turn on to a hot dish and pour round the base a lemon flavoured custard sauce.

French Lentil Soup

1 pint soaked lentils, 1 gill white haricot beans, 2 quarts stock, 3 oz. butter, 1 bouquet of garlic, 1 gill cream, a handful of fried bread croutons, a pinch powdered mint, pepper and salt to taste. Drain the lentils, put them with the haricot beans in a stewpan with the butter and the bouquet of herbs, fry a little, moisten with the stock, and cook until the lentils and beans are tender. Take out the bouquet, rub through a sieve, return to the stewpan, add the cream and mint, season to taste, heat up (but do not let it boil), put the peas and croutons in a soup tureen, pour in the soup and serve.

Cod a la Maitre

About 2 1/2 lb. codfish (middle cut), 1 pint veloute sauce, 1 gill white wine, 2 small shallots (chopped fine), 1 gill white stock, 2 oz. butter, 2 yolks of eggs, 1 teaspoon anchovy paste, 2 teaspoonful capers, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, 1 small bunch parsley and herbs (bouquet garnie). Wash and wipe the fish well, place it in a stewpan, season with pepper and salt and add veloute sauce, white wine, stock, chopped shallots, and bouquet garnie. Simmer slowly until the fish is done, basting occasionally. Put the fish on a dish and keep warm. Reduce the sauce until you obtain the desired consistency. Remove the herbs, add the yolks of eggs, work in the butter, and pass through a sieve. Return to saucepan, add the anchovy paste, chopped parsley and capers, stir a few minutes and pour over fish.

Pigeons a la Godard

Bone 2 or more pigeons. Prepare a forcemeat of veal and pork, well season and stuff the birds with this. Truss the pigeons, braise them with some pieces of carrot, onion, bacon and herbs and a little sherry and when ready cut them into slices and dish up on a hot dish. Pour over a rich supreme sauce flavoured with some of the liquid obtained from braising the pigeons. Garnish with button mushrooms. Serve hot. It is advisable to dress the pigeons on croutons of fried bread.

BURN STAINS ON CHINA

Occasionally a cup or saucer acquires a stain which is caused by the end of a cigarette being left to burn out in the saucer. Such burn stains are rather difficult to remove, and seldom yield to ordinary washing. The best treatment for a stain of this kind is to apply a paste made of black-lead and methyated spirits. Mix the black-lead to a fairly stiff paste with a little of the methyated spirits and spread it over the burnt marks. Leave it for some hours and then wash in warm soapy water. A stubborn stain may require several applications.

COOKERY NOOK

For Bombay Toast, make some anchovy butter by putting one ounce of boned anchovies with the same amount of butter. Melt this in a saucepan, and cook in it the beaten yolks of two eggs. Stir until it is cooked and creamy, season it with a little pepper, spread it on your buttered toast, and serve piping hot.

Chicken in Batter— French Fried

Choose young roasting chicken. Clean and cut into pieces at the joints. Cook until tender in boiling salted water. Cool thoroughly. Dry the surface. Dip each piece into batter and drop in deep crisco and fry until golden brown. Batter, 2 cups flour, (Simpson's) 1/2 teaspoonful salt, 2 eggs and 1 cup milk. Sift flour and salt together. Beat eggs with milk and stir into dry ingredients to make a thin batter.

Maltese Curry

Melt in bacon fat the onions and tomatoes saved from the Tourain; add one more of each vegetable, and fry; put in a tablespoonful of curry powder, the apple, add one banana cut in quarters, a pinch of sugar, and cook a little more. Add hot water, bring to the boil, let it get almost dry, add more water, and so on, for quite three-quarters of an hour, after which the whole thing is reduced to a puree. Finish by a drop of milk and a whole egg stirred in quickly over the fire. It makes the curry frothy and soft. Meanwhile you have tossed in butter whatever was left of the cold mutton. Positively its last appearance this week.

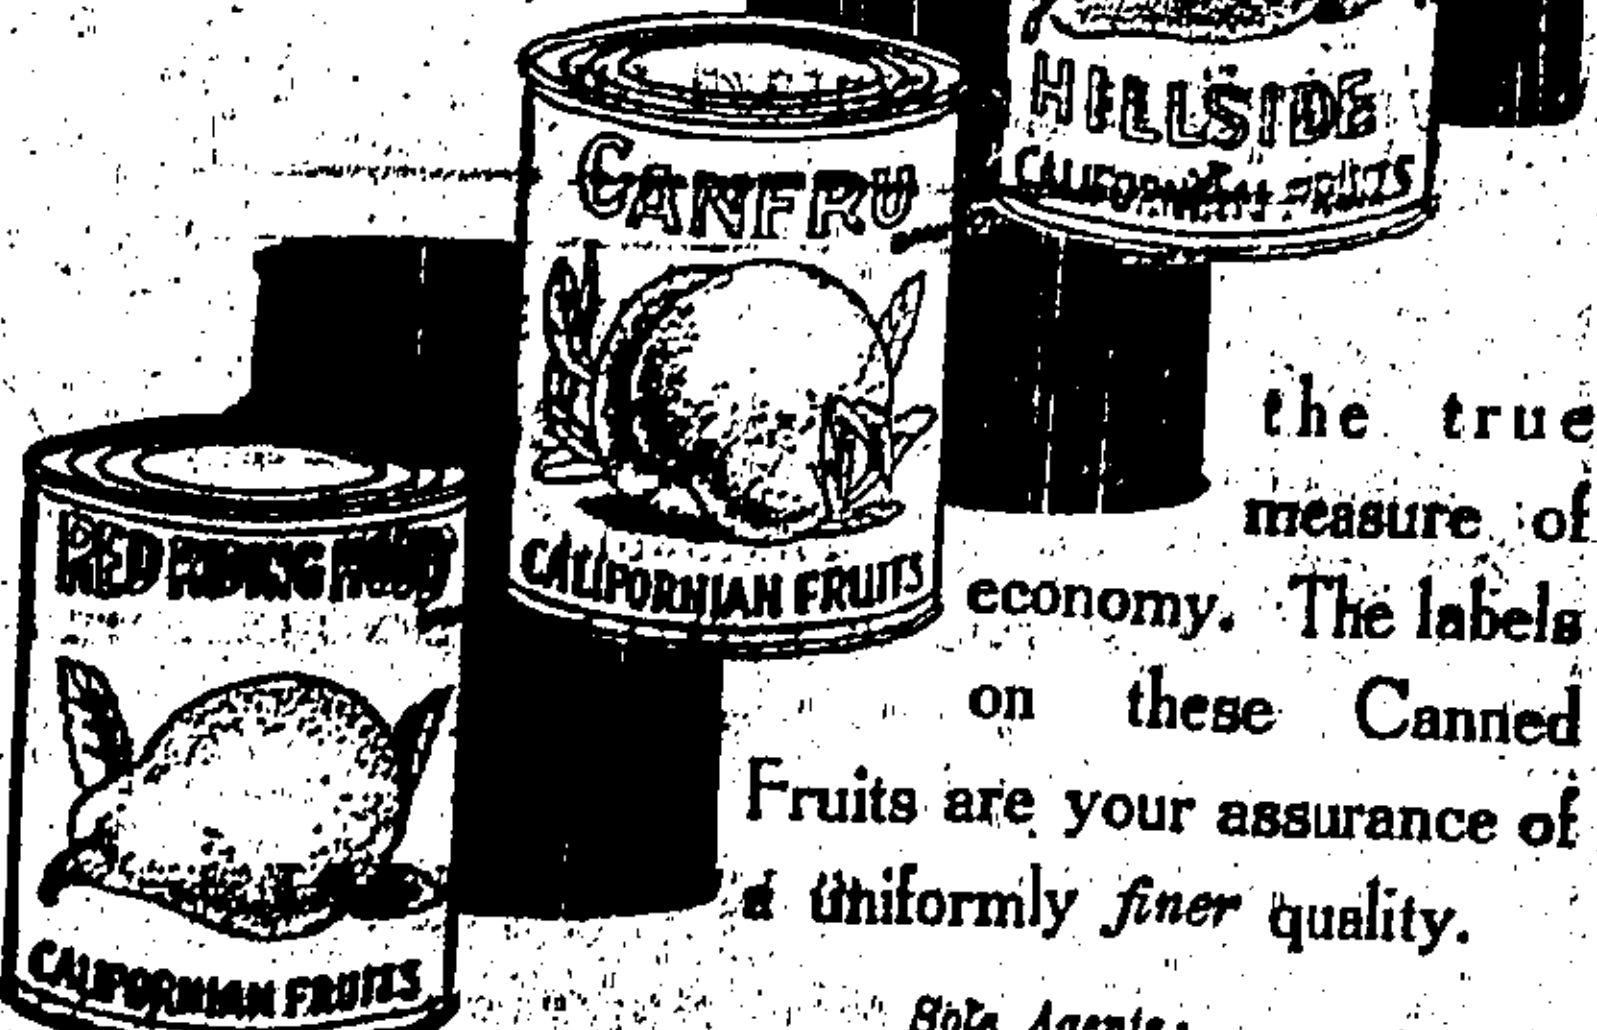

USE CARE IN IRONING

EGGS IN PLACE OF MEAT

Eggs In Place Of Meat
Eggs can take the place of meat and other heavy foods on your warm day menus. Cold boiled eggs go far toward dressing up a salad. That old favorite, deviled eggs and a bowl of potato salad, is as nice a thing as you can serve for supper on a warm night.

Lima Beans and Bacon in Tomato Sauce
Soak 2 cups of lima beans over night. Drain, cover with boiling water, add 1 teaspoon of salt, 1/8 teaspoon of soda and 1 small onion and cook until beans are tender. Drain, discard onion, and mix 1 can of tomato sauce with the beans. Spread in a baking dish, cover with thin slices of bacon and bake until bacon is crisp and brown.

Macedoine of Vegetables
Cut carrots to make 1 cup and turnips to make 1/2 cup in small, fancy shapes or strips and boil separately in salted water until tender. Drain and add 1 cup of cooked peas and 1 can of tomato sauce and heat. Just before serving add the yolk of 1 egg and 1 tablespoon of lemon juice.

Vegetable and Tomato Souffle
Boil 1 cup each of diced carrots and turnips until very soft, and press through a strainer or colander. Mix with 1 can of tomato sauce and the well-beaten yolks of three eggs. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites, pour into a greased baking dish and bake 30 minutes.

INVISIBLE WRITING

This is an easy kind of mystery writing that you will like to do. You can write things you don't want anybody to read, just in fun, and nobody who doesn't know the trick can read them. Squeeze some lemon juice and write with it. The writing won't show at all. But when you heat the paper—by holding it over the radiator or stove—the writing will come out, and you can read every word.

LAST-MINUTE MEAT DISHES

When dinner must be quickly prepared, our minds naturally turn to steak or chops, for they are the time honored last-minute meat dishes. They are not always the most inexpensive meats, however, and now, when keeping the food budget low is a problem of importance, we are interested in quickly prepared meat dishes that are not so expensive. There are hundreds of meat dishes that can be cooked in a few minutes while the table is being set and the vegetables and salad are being prepared; dishes that are unusual, savory and inexpensive.

Here are several recipes for quickly prepared and budget-saving meat dishes that your entire family will enjoy.
Beef Balls With Cooked Spaghetti
Season 1 pound ground beef with salt, pepper, and 1 small chopped onion. From into very small balls and brown in frying pan with butter. Push to one side of pan and add 1 large can cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce. Allow to heat thoroughly and heap on a hot platter, placing meat over the top and around edge. Garnish with sweet mustard pickle in rings of green pepper. Serves 6.

Quick Chilli Con Carne
Brown 1 small chopped onion in 2 tablespoons butter, add 1/2 lb. ground pork and cook until tender. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon flour and brown slightly. Season, then pour in one 16-oz. can baked beans and 1 of a 10-oz. can cream of tomato soup. Simmer for 10 minutes. Serve very hot with baked potatoes or boiled rice.

Mexican Pork Chops
Brown 6 pork chops (1 inch thick) in a skillet and sprinkle lightly with salt. Pour 1 small can cream of tomato soup over chops, cover and place in a moderate oven for about 45 minutes, or until chops are tender. Serve hot with the sauce which remains in the pan.

Corned Beef Supper Snacks
Chill 1 small can corned beef in can several hours, then cut in thin slices. Mash 1 small can oven-baked beans and combine with 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 cup chow chow pickle, finely chopped, and 1 tablespoon mustard sauce, from pickle. Spread baked bean mixture between slices of corned beef. Arrange on a platter and garnish with parsley.

American Chow Mein
Melt 2 tablespoons butter in large saucepan, add 1 cup coarsely chopped onions, and cook until lightly browned. Add 1/2 cups coarsely chopped celery, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, and simmer gently 10 minutes longer. Blend together 1 tablespoon flour and 2 tablespoons molasses and add to bean mixture stirring until mixture thickens. Pour over crisp chow mein noodles (2 cans) on a large platter. Serve hot. Serves 6.

Soak lamb's kidneys 1 hour in lukewarm water. Drain, remove fat and tissue and cover with sherry. Cut crosswise in slices, season with pepper and salt, dredge with flour and brown quickly in butter. Sauté 1 sliced onion and 1 small shallot, finely chopped in 3 tablespoons butter until a golden brown. Add 3 tablespoons flour, 1/2 cups brown stock and 1 cup hot cream, stirring constantly. Peel and cut in quarters 1 cup mushroom caps, sauté in 2 tablespoons butter until tender. Add to kidneys, season with salt, pepper, and cook for 5 minutes. Serve at once.

Rhubarb Betty

Place about one-third of the bread crumbs in a buttered dish, add half the rhubarb and sprinkle it with half the sugar. Add half the coconut with the fruit and juice. FREQUENTLY we get crisis in our health conditions. At present the whole world is going through a crisis. The individual crisis most people are up against is money and health. 'ASPRO' can deal with the health part of it. It is the means of dealing with a Health Crisis and it succeeds because it has within itself all the elements that remove the cause as well as the effects of numerous complaints. Feverish complaints are dispelled by its Anti-pyretic qualities—Rheumatism is banished because, after ingestion in the system, 'ASPRO' is a solvent of Uric Acid and is also an Internal Antiseptic and a Germicide. Being also anti-periodic and anti-fermentative, in conjunction with its other qualities, it brings sweet sleep to the sleepless—soothes the irritable and banishes nerve pains of all descriptions. It is also a known fact, established beyond a shadow of doubt throughout the world, that two 'ASPRO' Tablets and a hot lemon drink will smash up a flu attack in one night.

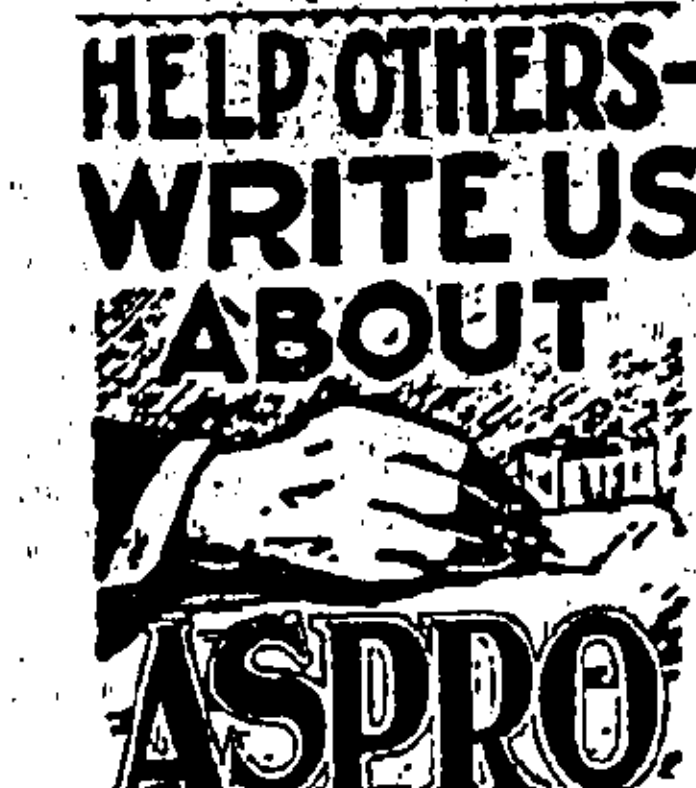

'ASPRO' DOES NOT HARM THE HEART OR STOMACH NOR LEAVE ANY INJURIOUS AFTER EFFECTS

5 MINUTES

FOR RELIEF WITH 'ASPRO'

Noodle Bing

1 pkg. egg noodles
4 eggs
1 cup rich milk
1 teaspoon salt
Boil until soft in salted water one package of Mueller's wide egg noodles for about 15 minutes. Drain and blanch. Beat 4 eggs lightly, and add to noodles. Add 1 cup rich milk and 1 teaspoon salt. Mix all together and pour into ring which has been well greased with vegetable oil or unsalted fat. Stand in pan of water and bake at moderate temperature for half an hour.
Cream chicken, fish or shrimps may be used instead of chicken balls, or fried hamburger-meat balls with do.

Crown of Pork
2 side cuts, pork
1 cup stale bread
1 small onion
1 cup sausage meat
1 egg
Salt and pepper
1 cup flour
Broth
Secure two side cuts of pork containing each 6 ribs from each side, of the same length and height. Have the backbone removed and cut between the ribs. Trim each rib as far as the meat, then turn the rib bones outside and the meat inside and sew the pieces together into a circle. This forms the crown.

Mix one cup of sausage meat, or ground round steak (lomo) with one cup of stale bread crumbs softened in water and pressed dry. Add one egg, one small onion minced fine, salt and pepper, and chop nicely. Put the crown in a baking pan, with the sausage mixture inside the crown and cover the bones with buttered paper to keep from burning. Dredge with salt, pepper and flour, and bake at 350 degree F. from 2 to three hours, basting every 10 minutes with the drip plings, to which about 1 cup of hot water is added.
To make the gravy, add about

BEAUTY HINTS

FOR DANDRUFF

Take glycerine four ounces, tincture of cantharides five ounces, bay rum, four ounces, water two ounces. Mix, and apply once a day and rub well down the scalp.

TO REMOVE FRECKLES

The following lotion is highly recommended: One ounce of lemon juice, a quarter of a dram of powdered borax, and half a dram of sugar; mix in a bottle, and allow them to stand a few days, when the liquor should be rubbed occasionally on the hands and face. Another application is: Friar's balsam one part, rose-water twenty parts.

Powdered nitre moistened with water and applied to the face night and morning is said to remove freckles without injury to the skin.
Also a tablespoonful of freshly grated horse-radish stirred into a cupful of sour milk; let it stand for twelve hours, then strain and apply often. This bleaches the complexion also, and takes off tan.

A LITTLE POLICY SETTLES EVERYTHING

Dialogue overheard on the bench at a South coast resort. Small boy to his mother: "Mummy, may I go in to swim?" "Certainly not, my dear, it's far too deep." "But daddy is swimming." "Yes, dear, but he's insured." —Sporting and Dramatic News.

1 cup flour to the fat in the pan, brown nicely, then add enough broth or stock to make desired quantity of gravy. Simmer very slowly. Add seasonings to taste.

The PURITY of 'ASPRO'

The purity of 'ASPRO' conforms to the standard laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia—the guiding authority of the Medical Profession. With 'ASPRO' there is no Free Salicylic Acid, therefore, it does not harm the heart, or have any injurious after-effects, such as palpitation, nausea, digestive or other troubles. Safeguard your health and heart by always insisting on 'ASPRO'.

Most children are subject to Toothache, Earache, Colds and sudden attacks of Temperature. 'ASPRO' can be safely given to children who are affected. It will soothe the pain away and quickly reduce Temperature.

HOW TO GIVE 'ASPRO' TO CHILDREN

Two simple methods of giving 'ASPRO' to the kiddies are: (a) with a little milk; or (b) beat the tablet up and administer 1/2 a teaspoonful of jam. The dosage is: Children 3 to 6 years, 1 tablet; 6 to 14 years, 1 tablet; 14 to 16 years, 1 1/2 tablets. 'ASPRO' like any other medicine should not be given to babies under 3 years of age without medical advice.

1 medium-sized cauliflower, yolk of 2 eggs; 1 cup milk; 1 teaspoon salt; 1/2 cup flour.
Wash the cauliflower and separate into flowers. Boil until tender in salted water, then drain. Beat the egg yolks until light. And the milk, salt and flour. Beat smooth with an egg beater. Dip each section of cauliflower in batter. Drop in deep crisp oil and fry until golden brown.

COOKERY NOOK

It is uncommon to find horse-radish used for much else than an accompaniment to roast beef, and it is such a weed that it is a pity we cannot find more uses for it. Here, at any rate, is a new one.
Cook about two pounds of cod or hake, sliced or whole, in fish stock, and when it is done, drain it and keep it warm. With two tablespoonfuls of butter, the same of uour and sufficient fish stock, make a thick sauce. Flavour this with salt, pepper, and a tablespoonful of lemon juice, and add a couple of tablespoonfuls of grated horseradish.
Do not cook after the horse-radish has been added, and pour it over the fish on serving. The sauce can, of course, be enriched to its advantage, with a little cream.

THE MUSEUM

Original Engravings

The London Museum has acquired as a gift from Messrs. Charles Bevan the original copper-plates, engraved in 1718, by William Hogarth with designs for the trade-cards of Richard Hand, "the Oldest Original Ch. vey Bunn Baker."

There are two designs, with the same wording, which states that Richard Hand is now "at the Kings Arms, at Chelsea, Removed from ye Old Original Chelsey Bunn-house. N.B. Who has the Honour to Serve the Royal Family." Both also bear the engraved signature of "Wm. Hogarth" and the year 1718, as well as the Royal Arms, which occupy the upper half of the composition. One of the two is, however, greatly inferior to the other, with the words "King's Arms" in a highly ornate Gothic type and the whole, far less well-proportioned, being, perhaps, a rejected draft.

"Lord Amberst" of Blackney has lent to the Museum the Coronation crowns (with the jewels removed) of Charles II., George IV., and Queen Adelaide. The crowns are mainly of silver, with gold settings in the instance of Charles's crown, which however, lacks the small orb at its apex.

JUMBO OF THE LEGATION

Link With The Boxer
Rising

A link with the past has been broken with the death of Chu Chung Yuan, the head cooie of the British Legation, known to everyone as "Jumbo" on account of his bulk.

"Jumbo" who died at the age of 64, had been connected with the British Legation since Boxer times, serving as a cook for the British marines during the siege, in which he also acted as a butcher. He was a familiar figure in the Legation compound and more than once was under fire while taking food to the marines on the wall.

With the coming of more peaceful times, "Jumbo" was appointed head cooie of the British Legation, the post held before him by his father, who died prior to the siege.

"Jumbo" had been in falling health for some time, but he struggled manfully with his duties, jealously refusing to permit anyone else to ring the British Legation Chapel bell, which he regarded as his special province.

Met All Trains
Another duty which brought him under the notice of distinguished visitors was meeting trains at the station for the purpose of supervising the transfer of luggage to the Legation.

"Jumbo's" appearance never failed to excite interest as he affected the old-style costume of his position and gave much attention to his queue, which, although only a few inches long, was a source of pride to him in his declining years.

Having been brought up in the Legation as a child, in addition to serving there himself for many years, "Jumbo" had a great fund of anecdotes concerning officials of the past. Known to ministers, visiting admirals and generals.

"Jumbo" will be missed in the Legation compound, where his genial nature made him many friends among the British staff as well as with countrymen in the employ of the Legation.

Although his health was failing,
"Jumbo" refused to enter hospital and died peacefully at his home in the Imperial City, mourned by his wife and a large family. "Jumbo's" brother is expected to succeed to the vacant post.

BUCHAREST IS IN TURMOIL

Seething With Unrest

A friend just returned from Bucharest tells that, as a result of the political developments following on the assassination of Dr.
Duca, the city is seething with excitement.

Those who know their Bucharest and wish to hear the latest
"behind the scenes" information are to be found at the Cafe Capasa, in the main thoroughfare, almost opposite the Military Casino.

Outwardly it resembles any of a hundred good-class Continental cafes, yet it is here that politicians, both prominent and obscure, discuss events and plans.

In this cafe the latest news is mixed with the wildest rumours.
There was, for instance, not long ago the reported suicide of one of Bucharest's most beautiful women.

An unfortunate love affair with a well-known aristocrat, he it was stated, impelled her to take her own life. There would be a police inquiry and disclosures which might even lead to the resignation of the Government.

Tongues wagged in the Cafe Cap-sa, and politicians with troubled minds sounded their colleagues to ascertain just how much fact and savory fare the police would be likely to exercise.

In the middle of this excitement walked Mme. X., whose "suicide" had caused so much anxiety.
She was accompanied by her husband, for there had not been an atom of truth in the story.

FEWER TOWER SIGHTSEERS

Authorities Perturbed

I hear that the authorities of the Tower of London are perturbed at the mark I decline in the number of visitors during the past year. It is estimated that there has been a decrease of nearly 100,000 sightseers, and, of course, this means a very substantial loss of revenue for the upkeep of the ancient buildings.
The slump in the American and Continental tourist traffic during the past year is recognised as the main cause of the decline in the number of visitors to the Tower. I understand, however, that consideration is being given to various proposals for making the Tower of greater appeal to the people of London themselves, who from the smallest proportion of the daily visitors.

TAKE A CHANCE

Coming To The Alhambra

Five hit numbers have been concocted by the battery of song and lyric writers who worked on the score of "Take a Chance" the film musical which Laurence Schwab, William Rowland and Monte Brice produced in New York for Paramount and which it opens to-morrow at the Alhambra Theatre.

Jay Gorney, Lou Alter and Herman Hupfeld wrote the music and E. Y. Harburg, Billy Rose and Arthur Swanson composed the lyrics for the score and the following snappy numbers:

"I Did It With My Little Ukelele" written by Harburg and Gorney and sung by Cliff Edwards against a goofy travelogue background showing how "Ukelele Ike" escapes from various perils by means of the instrument.

"New Deal Rhythm," written by Harburg and Gorney and sung by James Dunn, June Knight, Lillian Roth, Lillian Bond, Lona Andre, and Edwards and danced by the chorus of fifty.

"It's Only a Paper Moon," written by Harburg and Harold Arlen, the latter the composer of the famous "Stormy Weather" number.

In addition, Laurence Schwab is writing new lyrics for "Radio Was a Lady," the smash hit from the stage version of "Take a Chance," which was written by Buddy DeSylva and will be sung in the film by Lillian Roth.

And finally June Knight will sing "Should I Be Sweet," another DeSylva song from the Broadway production in which she created a Manhattan sensation several months ago.

"Take a Chance" is the story of four side show carnival entertainers who come to New York and win

Aerial thrills said to surpass anything ever shown on the motion picture screen are incorporated in the romance of John Monk Saunders' gripping story, "Ace of Aces," an RKO-Radio Picture showing to-day at the King's Theatre with Richard Dix in the starring title role, supported by Elizabeth Allan and Ralph Bellamy.

Daring motion picture stunts perform countless breath-taking feats in "Ace of Aces." Squadrons of trim fighting planes zoom, twist and dart about in the sky. Burning planes crash in sensational fights. Bullet-ridden ships disintegrate in mid-air and fall as debris to the ground.

"Ace of Aces" also blends a highly dramatic study by Richard Dix. A pacifist firmly condemning war, his assertions are considered cowardly by his fiancée whose derision eventually sends him to battle. When the mental strain overcomes him, he makes his last bid, redeeming himself in a spine-tingling climax.

fame and fortune on Broadway after many hectic adventures which carry them back stage, into a crooked gambling hall, and finally to the homes of Long Island's socially elite.

Lovers of thrills should pay a visit to the Queen's Theatre which is showing "Terror Aboard," a picture that has claimed to have more murders than any shown so far. Apart from this the picture shows the various and gruesome manners the murderer adopts in murdering more than two dozen of his victims.

The action centres round a luxurious yacht the owner of which, in order to escape arrest when it reaches port, plans to murder every one of its passengers, except the woman he loves in order to give the police a false clue.

One by one passengers and crew die, each in a more horrible, more gruesome fashion than the last. The climax is reached when a young aviator who is in love with the girl arrives on the scene and when a boarding party from freighter climbs aboard.

John Halliday as the murderer gives an excellent performance while the supporting cast including Charles Ruggles, Neil Hamilton and Shirley Grey helps to make the picture a "thrilling" entertainment.

6—Abuses In The Jail

Really the manner in which the jail of the Colony is conducted is a positive disgrace to every gentleman whose name is on the Commission of the peace. Dr. Bridges has admitted that the jail governor "has been at pains to please Mr. Tarrant and we have expressed our belief that the functionary named has been 'at pains' to do the very reverse.

Matters work thus—Mr. Tarrant makes a complaint to the visiting justices, which never by a chance meets with the smallest attention. It is possible that these complaints may not reach the visiting justices. Mr. Tarrant has sometimes difficulty in finding out who they are and on one occasion was referred by the jail Governor himself to Dr. Bridges. Thus foiled, Mr. Tarrant sends the complaint to the Colonial Secretary.

His Excellency, the Governor then becomes cognisant of it and having clearly found out long ago that the fault lies more in the sad system matters have fallen into, than in a misapprehension of details, yet never turns a deaf ear to these complaints, but exercises considerable ingenuity in all-viating them. The jail authorities however, having had much experience at that kind of work than His Excellency, always manage to thwart his intentions, at least for a time. They clearly know Excellency's good nature the way they do.

To illustrate our meaning: It is laid down by statute that there shall be baths to every gaol. There being none to the Hong Kong debtors' prison, Mr. Tarrant named the defect first to the gaol authorities, then to the visiting justices, and then to the Colonial Secretary. Sir Hercules ordered them to be built and the Surveyor General instantly carried out the order. The bath rooms were completed and the bath tubs made ready but all Mr. Tarrant could do failed to have the tubs put into the bath rooms, until he adopted the only mode of redress, namely, first an application to the gaol authorities, then to the visiting justices and then to the Colonial Secretary. That brought the Surveyor General down, who, although he expressed himself dissatisfied at the conduct of the gaol authorities did not reprimand them.

But this is only a small portion of the barrack ingenuity practised in this behalf. The compound allotted for exercise had neither channel nor drain. The rain lodged on it and of course malaria was emitted. The usual track was followed with precisely the usual result. His Excellency ordered the compound to be drained and the Surveyor General promptly carried out the order—but the gaol authorities were determined to exhibit their ideas about both the drainage and the bath tubs—for they actually dug a hole, just about as large as a bath tub, within five feet of Mr. Tarrant's window which of course is full of water this rainy weather!

WATCHMAN TURNS THIEF

Fined $100 or Two Months

A watchman in the employment of the Wing On Company was charged before Mr. Balfour yesterday with stealing nine handkerchiefs and 18 buttons and with the unlawful possession of a piece of silk, a piece of serge and a scarf.

Det.-Sergt. C. Goodwin said the defendant was a night watchman. Not all of the show cases and counter cases were locked and it was his duty to watch the property. On Wednesday a district watchman observed him to emerge from the main door and enter the insurance department. When searched the handkerchiefs and buttons were found in his pockets. A search of the servants' quarters revealed the silk, serge and scarf. The defendant claimed he bought the scarf for 75 cents, but gave no explanation in regard to the other articles.

It was stated defendant had been employed for about two years. Fines totalling $100 or two months' hard labour in default were imposed.

A YOUNG THIEF

Remarkable Pick Pocket.

Sentence of eight weeks' hard labour was passed on a Chinese youth of 18 who was convicted yesterday for stealing a purse containing $2.06 the property of a shop folk.

Complainant was watching a medicine man in Hollywood Road when defendant inserted his hand into his jacket and from an inner pocket took the purse. He was seen by a district watchman and arrested on the spot.

"Remarkable how the defendant extracted the purse," remarked Insp. Andrew.

MAN CAUGHT WITH JEMMY

Sentence of two months' hard labour was passed on a Chinese who was arrested by a detective in Caine Road and found to be in possession of a jemmy. The man aroused suspicion when he turned and walked away in an opposite direction on sighting a Chinese detective. Defendant had had a previous conviction.

CASE AGAINST SERGEANT

Again Adjourned

The case against Sergeant F.W. E. Pratt of the H.K.S.R.A. on charges of obtaining letters by false pretences and delaying the delivery of several postal packages, was continued before Mr. Wynne-Jones at Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday. Mr. J. A. Fraser, assistant Attorney General, prosecuted and Mr. D. L. Strellet appeared for the defence. After Captain E. M. Bolt, the adjutant of the Brigade had been cross-examined at length by Mr. Strellet, regarding the postal system of the Brigade, the case was again adjourned.

DINNER TO MR. AND MRS. GOW

Appreciation By Dock Staff

Mr. and Mrs. David Gow who are shortly to leave the Colony on retirement were feted by the members of the Kowloon Dock Staff on Tuesday night.

After dinner, Messrs. J. B. Sturgeon, E. Cock, R. Lapsley and W. J. Baxley made speeches paying tribute to the work done by Mr. Gow and recalling the happy associations he had formed.

Mr. Gow was presented with a black-wood salver inlaid with silver and a handsome drawing-room carpet with rugs to match.

Mr. Gow made suitable response and, in the course of his speech, made reference to his early days from 1894 and conditions then prevailing at the Kowloon Docks.

During the evening, Miss Parkes entertained the company with Scottish and other appropriate songs and, later, dancing took place. Mr. W. J. K. Mackie playing the pipes for the Eightoms Reels and Mr. H. Duncan being responsible for the other music.

TRADE MARK CASE

Two Chinese Firms
Fined

The Kan Hing firm of 8, Possession Street and the Kwong Sum firm of 52 Lower Lascar Row were summoned yesterday before Mr. Hamilton in respect of infringement of trade marks.

The former was summoned on three counts of possession, applying a false trade mark, and using a false trade description on tins of paint, while the latter was summoned for possession of tins on which a false trade mark had been applied.

The well known paint firm of Messrs. Thomas Hubback and Sons, London, for whom Messrs. Harry Wicking and Company are local agents were the complainants.

For the prosecution, Mr. O. E. C. Marton, in dealing with the first case, said that Kan Hing for 18 years previous to 1931, had been regular customers with Harry Wicking. Since 1931, they had purchased other goods but not paint. The paint in the tins sold by the defendant was of an inferior brand. He applied for a heavy penalty and for costs.

Mr. Marton mentioned there was a Bill before Council to increase the fine ten times in cases of this nature.

His Worship imposed fines totalling $200 and ordered $250 costs to be paid by the defendant firm.

In the case of Kwong Sum, Mr. Marton said the defendants assisted in every way they could to put matters right. Through their help 28 tins, which had been bought by other dealers, were recovered. The paint in this case was of the quality used by Hubback and Sons. Defendants also informed them they were selling tins in Canton. The only offence committed was the application of labels which was a direct infringement.

He would not apply for a heavy fine but would ask for costs as in the case of Kan Hing. A total of 96 tins were seized on a warrant, while the defendant assisted in recovering a further 26 tins. His Worship imposed a fine of $25 and ordered $75 costs to be paid by the defendant.

CHASE BANK CASE

Judgment Reserved

Judgment was reserved by Mr. Justice Wood yesterday in which Tam Foo, of Swatow claimed $14,800 from the Chase Bank.

Mr. Eldon Potter, K. C., and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K. C. instructed Mr. Messrs. Lo and Lo appeared for plaintiff, and Mr. D. McNeill and Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Messrs. Hastings and Co., represented defendants.

The evidence in the case concluded yesterday and Mr. McNeill and Mr. Sheldon having spoken for the defence, Mr. Potter made his reply this morning.

Counsel said it had not been suggested that the procedure by which plaintiff made his deposits was other than the ordinary procedure, and Mr. Biggar, manager of defendant firm, had told the court that there was nothing else Tam could have done to protect himself.

Although the defence had contended that the employees of the comptroller department were not employees of the bank in a legal sense (and he did not concede that point), the fact remained that plaintiff was not aware of this, and neither was he aware of the limitation of authority of the comptroller. The bank only received money through the comptroller department which had actual authority to make a contract binding on the bank; but he would put the point no higher than was necessary for his purpose and say they had apparent authority to make such a contract.

His Lordship said he would announce his decision after Chinese New Year Day.

purpose of ascertaining compass deviations, or for compass adjustments, when mooring to B and C Class Buoys.

Vessels requiring to be swung for such purposes should apply to the Harbour Office for allocation of an A Class Buoy.

CHRISTIAN TENETS AND BUDDHISM

Interesting Comparison
By Dr. Reichelt

IDEAS OF CREATION

At the Cathedral Hall on Monday night, Bishop Hall took the chair when Dr. Reichelt gave his last lecture on "Buddhist and Christian viewpoints on some of the fundamental religious views." The main points of the lecturer's thoughtful address were as follows:

The Buddhists speak and think about the Ultimate Reality in an abstract and impersonal way, while the Christians see the whole thing theistic, permeated by the supreme intelligence, will-power and wisdom, combined in the all-embracing and all-pervading supra-personality called God, the word personality expressing limitations, although God is outside limitations. He is the eternal "I am," the all-pervading Spirit, Life and Light as stated in Eph. 7.6, "One God, and Father of All, who is above all, and through all, and in you all."

THE IDEA OF CREATION. Here again we find a subtle dissimilarity: we Christians believing that the whole Kosmos is created by God through His eternal Logos. In this respect we welcome the illuminating information given by Science which informs us that creation is not an act that was once completed, and never will occur again, but on the contrary, new worlds, and solar systems are formed while old worlds and solar systems dissolve.

The advanced Christian conception about creation is that God, through His creating and preserving Logos, through His eternal laws, is ever working; that Spirit and Matter all belong to Him, being only two aspects of the same thing, and that the nebulae of the Solar Systems contain all the potentialities and possibilities of all that has existed, and all that is coming into existence.

The Buddhists do not acknowledge any Creator behind the Universe. At the World Buddhist Conference held at Kyoto in 1927, a resolution was unanimously adopted to the effect that the Buddhist proclaimed by the Christian Church, placing God as the Creator and Preserver of the Universe.

According to Buddhist metaphysics, the Creation is a materialization produced by the "germs of Desire," these desire waves bringing forth the nebulae in which the four great elements, earth, water, fire and wind or air are the fundamental ingredients, the evolution and involution of the Universe going on in cyclic courses.

In perpetual cycles does the Universe roll through boundless eternities. Is there an end? Here we meet differing opinions, the majority believing that there is no end and no beginning, and strongly stressing the axiom that there is no beginning.

The Buddhists have a great knowledge of the physical laws operating in space, and during the first century A.D. had developed a clear understanding of the "Microcosm and the Macrocosm, going so far as to speak about the innumerable components of the cell, and although not using the terms, electron and atom, positive and negative electricity, they came to the same result in their intuitive observations!

THE IDEA OF HEAVEN

NIRVANA. Buddhism says that man is a pilgrim; through numberless lives and incarnations he is journeying on the ocean of sin and sorrow to the other shore. Nirvana.

The Christians know that what we call Heaven covers "an almost boundless possibility for development, several planes of Heaven are indicated. St. Paul mentions "the third heaven."

To the undeveloped Christian as to the undeveloped Buddhist, it is quite natural to dwell in the first Heaven plane, but for the more developed, it is just as natural to centre in the more-ultimate reality.

The great difference between the two ideas of a living God, the Father, the highest idea of the Christian Kirvanta, aspect is St. Paul's in 15th Chapter of Corinthians "And when all things shall be subdued unto Him (i.e. Christ) then shall the Son also himself be subject unto Him, shall put all things under Him, that God may be all in all."

And so with the ultimate aim in Buddhism, Nirvana; only a Buddha could express Nirvana, the more we try to explain it, false ideas creep in, and many people say that Nirvana means extinction, but it may perhaps be best expressed as follows: "Nirvana is the extinction of all things which create limitations and hinder the real essence of the Kosmos in its differentiation and in its integration, to unfold or to concentrate as in Christian terms, "Perfect as our Father in Heaven is perfect."

YEAR OF PROGRESS REPORTED

At Ying Wah Girls' School
Speech Day

MRS. S. W. T'SO GIVES AWAY THE AWARDS

Hop Yat Church Hall was the scene of much activity last evening when the Ying Wah Girls' School held their annual Speech Day.

Mrs. S. W. T'so gave away the awards, and in thanking the school, on her behalf, for asking her to do so, the Hon. Mr. T'so remarked that the headmistress's report showed a year of really satisfactory work and he congratulated the staff and pupils for their splendid effort.

Miss Hutchinson, the headmistress took the opportunity of thanking the school's friends for the support they had given during the year, particularly to the staff of the Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals for service readily given in time of sickness and emergency.

HEADMISTRESS'S REPORT

Addressing the gathering, Miss Hutchinson, the headmistress, said:

Before presenting the report of the work of the year 1933 to the parents of pupils and to the friends of the Ying Wah Girls' School, I should like, on behalf of the School, to welcome you all here this evening and to thank you for your presence and for your interest in the school.

The year 1933 has been marked by no outstanding events, though it opened on a note of change. It was with great regret that in January we said goodbye to five members of the Chinese staff. Miss Wong Wai Kei left to prepare to enter upon a course of training in agriculture. Miss Woo Lai Yung gave up teaching in order to devote herself to directing evangelistic work. Miss Wong Sam Tsing went to take up evangelistic work in the country.

and Miss Au Yeung Shuk Yuen and Miss Kwong I Wa left to take up other teaching posts. In their places we welcomed Miss Woo Siu Ch'oh, one of our own old girls, Miss Woo Wing Shi, Miss Chan Ho Tsan, Miss Poon Wai Kuen, and Miss Kom Lai Kwong who came to take charge of the Kindergarten. In October we parted reluctantly with Miss Ip Pat Tsan who had to give up her work as drill and games mistress, and with Mrs. Garrod who had to resign on account of ill-health.

In October, too, we had the joy of welcoming Miss Sillocks back on her return from furlough. During the year the average monthly enrolment was 406, and the average daily attendance was 387—just over 95 per cent.

Change in School Year. The decision that was made recently to abolish the Junior Local Examination after 1932 and the Senior Local Examination after 1933 and to substitute a School Leaving Examination which will be held for the first time in June 1935 has necessitated a change in the school year. We decided to make the long term—January to July—one school year and to commence a new school year in September, thus having two clear years ahead before the time comes for the first set of girls to enter for the School Leaving Examination in 1935.

With the exception of the senior class, who were preparing for the Senior Local and Matriculation Examination in November, all classes were promoted in September.

In July, fourteen girls completed the Lower Middle School course; twenty-four girls completed the work of the Primary School; and seventeen little girls and boys passed the first milestone in their school life and graduated from the Kindergarten.

In November, one girl entered for the Matriculation Examination of the Hong Kong University and was successful. Five entered for Senior Local. Of these four passed, two of them qualifying for Matriculation.

It was interesting to discover—and I think that it is worth mentioning—the number of years that the members of this class had been in the school. Two had been here for thirteen years, one for twelve years, and two for ten years. I hope that there will be had turned out; though many houses were destroyed there was no loss of life. Most of the fires were caused by the highly inflammable materials so easily ignited. The authorities at the moment are having all matchboxes removed. In the town and along the Kialat Road front scores have been broken down to the discontent of the poorer classes.

Fires. On Saturday night the fire brigade had to contend with three simultaneous fires in different districts. All available engines an increasing number of girls, not only in this, but in other schools, too, who will follow this example. For I think that it is when a girl is prepared to give all her loyalty to one school and make to that school the contribution that she can give at each different stage of her school life that she is best able to receive what her school has to give to her, not only of school lessons but of that wider training in character which will fit her to take her place in the community.

In September three girls entered for the Examinations in Piano-forte held by the Trinity College of Music. One gained an honours certificate and one passed, and in the First Steps Division one passed with honours.

It is right and fitting on a Speech Day like this that special mention be made of results gained by girls who have completed either the whole of their school course or one stage of it and that the presentation of certificates should have an important place on the programme. But while we congratulate those who will this evening receive certificates we remember also those who, in the success of their pupils, see the fruit of their labours, and I would take this opportunity of expressing my most sincere thanks to all members of the Staff, both Chinese and non-Chinese, for the loyal and efficient help that they have so ungrudgingly given during the year.

English Society Formed. I have no doubt whatever that the girls enjoy both the work and play of school life. And as I see the various classes at work and watch the faces of scholars and staff I am quite sure, too, that the teachers are not just performing a duty but are keenly enjoying their work. This mutual enjoyment makes for much real happiness and goes far towards overcoming the difficulties that have to be met.

During the spring term Miss Ward gave a course of lectures on the "Principles of Health and Home Nursing" to the second year class of the Upper Middle School. The girls greatly enjoyed these, especially those classes for practical work.

Early in the year, at the request of the girls, an English Society was formed, membership of which was open to the girls of the Upper Middle School. Meetings were held regularly for debates, story telling, or play reading. The members also entered with enthusiasm into the scheme organized by the Local Branch of the League of Nations Society, for promoting correspondence between school girls of different countries.

The School branch of the Young Women's Christian Association, the Wa-Kwong Group, has continued its work. The very fact that during the first part of the year it had to struggle for its existence, I think, to help the girls to realise the value of this group and what they would miss if it failed to be, and the work of the autumn term was tackled really bravely and with much enthusiasm. The Wa Kwong group is indeed an excellent training ground for leadership in Social and Church work and girls who have left school bear witness to the benefit they have received from learning by this means to plan interesting meetings, handle committees, and practice Christian service in various ways.

Some of the senior girls have found a further outlet for their desire to serve in Sunday School work and on Sunday mornings have helped some of the teachers to carry on the Primary and Junior

"VISIT ITALY" CAMPAIGN

Gigantic Scheme By Fascist Government

REPRESENTATIVE HERE

That tourists the world over are being encouraged and afforded every possible facility to visit Italy. This was revealed by Col. Camillo Canali, representative of the Italian Government Tourist Bureau in an interview with a "Daily Press" representative yesterday.

Col. Canali explained that he was not the representative of any tourist agency, but an official of the Italian Government. The Italian Government is anxious that people should visit their country, which has many attractions to offer, and for that purpose they have formed the Tourist Bureau.

This official organisation deals with all matters connected therewith, co-ordinates and directs all tourist activities, make regulations necessary for its developments and sees that these regulations are rigidly observed.

The organisation also looks after and prints all propaganda publications which may acquaint visitors with what may be of interest to them, from old monuments and excavations to cultural and university education; from musical and theatrical life to the natural beauties of the country; from sports of all kinds to health and thermal resorts. All the publications are edited under the control of the Commissariato del Turismo and by a special body named E.N.I.T., who are under the direct control of the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs who is himself the Commissary for touring. This propaganda are in various languages.

Col. Canali has been all over India, Burma, Siam, the Dutch East Indies and Burma for the purpose of interesting would-be tourists in the attractions of Italy and he is now on his way to Shanghai and Japan. Because of the geographical position of Italy, he said, the place was ideal for anyone, making the trip from the Far East to Europe, to break the journey in Italy. The climate was semi-tropical and the visit would be worth while in every way.

The Italian Government, it was emphasized, have done everything possible to encourage tourists to visit the country. Train fares have been cut down to a very low figure and hotel charges are regulated by law, and are revised every six months. The Italian Government are anxious that visitors should see for themselves what Italy is like to-day and hope by this means to promote better understanding between the Italian people and other nations.

Departments of the Hop Yat Church Sunday School.

In November, the Annual Harvest Thanksgiving Service was held when Rev. C. D. Gousins of the London Missionary Society in Canton was the speaker. Afterwards the girls greatly enjoyed taking some of their gifts to the Sam Kwong School for the Blind at Pokfulam, while a large number had the privilege of taking the rest of the gifts to the Netherlands and Hoh Miu Ling Hospitals and of telling the patients there the meaning of their visit.

Old Girl's Society. At the Christmas meeting we had the pleasure of a visit from Dr. Allen of Kowloon, who gave the address. During the year collections were made on behalf of the Chinese Home Missionary Society for its work in Yunnan, and on behalf of the fund for Street Sleepers. We had also the privilege of sharing in the Pound Day organised by the Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals in March.

The Old Girl's Society held two successful meetings. At the spring meeting a visit was paid to Chan Shau Shaan village where the annual business meeting was held. The summer meeting took the form of a bathing picnic to Repulse Bay. To this the present girls were invited and responded in considerable numbers.

Before I close this report I wish to express our thanks to friends to whom we are indebted for help. To the members of the London Missionary Society who have given assistance in various ways, to the Staff of the Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals for service readily given in time of sickness and emergency; to the Hop Yat Church for granting us the use of this Hall this evening; to Rev. Cheung Chuk Ling for help and counsel given on many occasions and for his presence with us as chairman at this meeting.

And, in the name of the School, I would extend a very warm welcome to Mrs. T'so and express our gratitude to her for coming to present the certificates this evening.

Mrs. T'so then gave away the awards, after which she was presented with a beautiful bouquet.

HONG KONG, FEBRUARY 8, 1934.

LONDON AND LOCARNO

In the search for the best methods of assuring peace in Europe, it is natural that the idea of a definite Franco-British alliance should be discussed. It is the theme of articles in the French newspapers, and it has been openly advocated in sections of the British press which are, so far as circulation is concerned, extremely important.

Yet there is a general instinctive feeling which condemns special alliances as retrograde as well as impossible. A secret understanding is out of the question. A public Franco-British treaty, however defensive in character, would be interpreted as an attempt to isolate and oppress Germany. Besides, there is a considerable and growing sentiment in Great Britain in favour of the denunciation even of existing obligations on the Continent. It is affirmed that Great Britain should in no circumstances take sides in future hostilities. A veritable campaign in this sense is being waged in popular newspapers.

Yet the Locarno accords exist, and responsible statesmen declare their intention of respecting them. The honour of Britain is at stake. Having signed these engagements, Britain must fulfil them at no matter what cost. It would be perilous to have negotiated the accords at a crucial moment of history, and so to have determined both French and German policy, and then to evade the responsibilities which were voluntarily undertaken. Emphatically is the intention of Great Britain to stand by the Locarno accords asserted.

Nevertheless, such statements are not sufficient. It is necessary to inquire precisely what Great Britain has undertaken to do. In the event of aggression by France or Germany, Great Britain would, it is assumed, place its forces in the defense of the attacked nation. Yet it would claim the right to be the judge of the merits of the matter, and it is quite conceivable that there would be a difference of opinion. Moreover, it could put the case before the League of Nations, and, as the French suggest, there would be undue delay. Thus there is some dispute, not as to whether Great Britain would keep its promise, but as to the efficacy of this promise and as to what was intended by it.

Hence the new cry for a definite alliance which would take the place of the Locarno pact. France would then know where it stood. It would be able to rely upon British assistance in foreseeable eventualities. It would feel secure and would therefore be able to go some way in the direction of disarmament. On the other hand, Germany would know what to expect and its attitude might be greatly influenced.

Many people accept this view. So that there is, on the one side, opposition to the Locarno pact on the ground that it ties the hands of Great Britain and involves it in European affairs, and, on the other side, there is opposition on the ground that it is also altogether insufficient to serve a practical purpose and should be converted into formal engagements to France which could not be misunderstood by Germany.

The chances of inducing Great Britain to go further than it already has gone are not considerable. On the whole, the sentiment against any alliances which would automatically set two nations against a third has been strengthened in recent years. Such alliances have failed in the past because they invariably provoke counter-alliances. With all its flaws, the Locarno pact is likely to remain as the charter of western Europe, for it alone is compatible with the general conception of the League of Nations.

STUDENTS IN GERMANY

New Constitution Proclaimed

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, February 7. The Minister of Home Affairs, Dr. Frick, speaking on Wednesday in the Berlin Philharmonic Hall, proclaimed a new constitution for organized student associations in Germany both academicians and Technicians.

In his introduction of his speech, Dr. Frick said that the new constitution provided that all students in the Reichsgerman Nationality wherever the German language is spoken would in future belong to one organization in order to enable students to carry out the will of their leader, Herr Adolf Hitler. High school students would form one section of this organization and technical college students the other.

Over these schools is placed a third body representing students as a whole. Each of the three bodies now receives its own constitution. This supreme organization has the task of seeing that students carry out their duty in the high schools of the State. Above all students are placed under the obligation of serving in a Brown Shirt detachment and will undergo political training to fit them for responsible, unselfish duty towards the Nation and the State.

The Constitution provides that one sectional organization known as German academicians and the second, known as German technicians should together form a Reich federation of students of German high schools and technical institutions as described above.

The leader of the federation, that is the supreme body, will be appointed by the Reichsminister of Home Affairs. The form of co-operation between the two sections of the federation will be determined by a federation leader appointed by the Home Minister. The leader is empowered to issue orders to sub-leaders in each of the two sections. The leader of the federation has a right to attend all meetings held by the German academicians or German technicians and must be invited to attend.

Finally, when students throughout the Reich have been organized as provided for by the provincial constitution the Minister will proclaim a permanent constitution worked out in consultation with the leader of the Federation.—Transocean Kuo Min.

They helped Mr. Davidson, who is seventy and an invalid, to escape, and themselves got away in their night clothes. Their efforts, aided by firemen and police, to release the dog from the kitchen, were unsuccessful, and the animal perished.

PLACE DE LA CONCORDE---A BATTLEFIELD

BRITAIN'S VIEWS ON

DISARMAMENT

Sir John Simon States
Britains Views

FRANCE AND GERMANY KEY TO SITUATION

London, February 7.
The House of Commons was crowded, and many diplomatic representatives were present when the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, initiated the Disarmament debate yesterday. He declared that a situation had developed since December 21. Permitting useful discussion, as four important documents had been issued by the British, French, Italian and German Governments. Although serious differences still existed, there had been a sufficiently greater approach to common ground, and sufficient encouragement, to justify a new effort for reconciliation by Great Britain, hence the memorandum of January 31.

The key to Disarmament, he said, was the accommodation between France and Germany. Germany's claim to equal rights in armaments could not, and ought not, to be resisted, because there was little likelihood of world peace if one attempted to place a great country and race under superior jurisdiction. No drastic solution could be found on the basis of all nations immediately abandoning all weapons denied to Germany.

NOT AN IDEAL PLAN

Sir John Simon said that if a prompt agreement was not reached, Great Britain would have to consider her armament position if she was to live in a world of unlimited armaments. He emphasised that the British memorandum was not submitted as some ideal plan, without regard to the needs, claims and anxieties of others. It was presented in the spirit of realism.

Time was running against the friends of Disarmament, and the British plan attempted to provide a basis for a prompt agreement. Referring to German re-armament, Sir John Simon said that any convention must face some re-armament by Germany, but the British Government would view with repugnance a settlement which provided equality of rights without any Disarmament in any quarter.

Britain was not entering new commitments in the sense of repressive action and in ignorance of circumstances. "We should do our utmost to faithfully fulfil any obligations into which we have entered," he declared.

A SERIOUS ADVANCE

Having emphasised the obligation of the signatories to the convention to act in concert to prevent violation of the convention, Sir John Simon emphasised that the British proposals constituted a really serious advance.

The next step, he said, was to ensure that the British memorandum was completely understood abroad, and Britain fully grasped the other nations' difficulties.

The British Government therefore intended to arrange for the Lord of the Privy Seal, Captain Anthony Eden, to visit Paris, Rome and Berlin as soon as possible, to explain the British viewpoint and to learn the other Governments' views on the British memorandum.

Captain Eden would have left immediately for Paris, but the French political situation necessitated the consideration of the French Government's convenience.

Sir John Simon concluded that it was Britain's duty to give a further lead, as she had already offered the most striking proof of her good faith by voluntarily translating the desire for Disarmament from words into deeds.

Britain, he said, was resolved to do everything possible despite all the difficulties to bring about an international agreement, and to strengthen in every possible and practicable way the peace structure of the world, and so "deliver ourselves and others from the dangers and burdens that will follow the final failure to agree."

The Labour Member for Stepney, Lime House, Mr. C. R. Attlee acting Opposition Leader, said that German equality was conceded too late and was also not conceded to right but to force. The League's policy encouraged the nations to leave the League to talk of war and get concessions.

SINO-JAPANESE DISPUTE

Japan had been made a model for the treatment of the rest of the world. The whole idea of security went when the world failed to assert itself in the Sino-Japanese dispute.

The Labour Party, he said, wanted the security of total Disarmament, the British plan provided no approach to that for 10 years. The Liberal Party leader, Sir Herbert Samuel, declared that the British proposals had aroused no random laid down that naval enthusiasm. He welcomed the agreement with Italy in regard to the reform of the League of Nations.

A measure of re-armament for Germany he said, was inevitable as a result of the principle of equality. It was not a surrender to Chancellor Hitler since every German Government had made the same claim.

The British plan, if fully carried out, would result in a "decrease of armaments in Europe, but even if Europe agreed to the Far East, Japan's attitude, he said, had been almost entirely negative. She had given no indication that she would accept the conditions proposed.

Sir Herbert Samuel hoped that the British Government would not be deterred by the possibility of opposition on the part of one power.

Speaking in the spirit of friendliness, he did not believe that the Government of Japan would view with equanimity the situation in which they had been isolated diplomatically by their attitude in Manchuria and economically by the present world trade conditions and then morally, and possibly strategically, by being a single dissident to nullify a general Disarmament convention.

Rear-Admiral G. Campbell, the Independent member, for Burnley, urged the removal of the causes of war, including ill-adjusted territories, and suggested the establishment of a League of Nations tribunal to which appeals could be made with an international Air Force to enforce its authority.

In regard to naval armaments, he declared that only cruisers, not exceeding 3,000 tons, were necessary.

GERMANY'S ENGAGEMENTS
The Conservative member for West Birmingham, Sir Austen Chamberlain, expressed satisfaction with the German-Polish agreements provided it did not detract from Germany's previous engagements under the League Covenant, the Kellogg Pact and the Locarno Treaty.

At this stage of his speech, Sir Austen Chamberlain was loudly cheered.

"It is time," he continued, "to ask Germany to frankly declare her wishes so that we can tell her how far we are prepared to go."

Referring to the claim for the return of German colonies, he said that it was not in the power of the British Government to surrender mandates, many of which were not within its control.

"If we were to accept Germany's claims on other points they must withdraw their claims on these points and so reach a compromise," he declared.

Sir Austen Chamberlain was of the opinion that Sir John Simon's statement that Germany's claim for equality in armament was irresistible, was dangerous, and wished that Sir John Simon would disavow the implication that he would accept equality with Germany on the sea.

Loud cheers from the Ministers greeted this passage.

Sir John Simon intervening, said that if he used the phrase "equality in armaments" he must have used it erroneously. What he meant was, equality of rights as clearly stated in the British memorandum.

NAVAL ARMAMENTS

He pointed out that the memoranda were to be the subject of entirely separate negotiations.

The Lord of the Privy Seal, Captain Anthony Eden replying to the debate said that in view of the Austrian decision in regard to submitting the matter to the League, the Austro-German dispute was, in a sense, sub judice and any action to be taken would have to be a joint action, decided by the Council of the League.

Austria, he said, was entitled to demand no interference in her internal affairs by any other Government.

ECHO DE PARIS

Daladier Tenders His Resignation

WILL THERE BE CIVIL WAR IN PARIS?

M. DALADIER HAS RESIGNED IN ORDER TO AVOID BLOODSHED.
—REUTER.

("Daily Press" Special)

Paris, February 7.

Conditions closely resembling a State of seige now prevail in the French Capital. For instance, the Ministry of Home Affairs announced early on Wednesday morning that every kind of open air meeting and proclamation were to be rigorously forbidden until further notice. A warrant has been issued for the examination of Meurra, the director of L'Action Francaise for a leading article on Wednesday inciting citizens to murder. The whole of the Paris Press condemns this bloodshed and almost without exception throws the blame on M. Daladier whose position is now more precarious than ever.

Several papers speak of "Civil War in Paris," the Victoire says that Daladier has his hands smeared with the blood of the Right Party, while The Echo d'Paris says that "the Stavisky Government which is a Government of thieves and crime has now become a Government of blood"; while the Economic Daily Journal Industrial origin says that heavy industries demand the immediate resignation of the Government.

Daladier paid a visit to President Lebrun early this morning, the visit was for the purpose of obtaining far-reaching power for securing and maintaining public order.

For the first time since the end of the War, the Government is proceeding to forbid the publication of certain newspapers. The police began on Wednesday morning by confiscating the entire edition of the Action Francaise.

The latest edition of the Figaro estimates the number of killed on Tuesday at 12 and the injured at 350, while Police reports state 10 are dead, four demonstrators, four military men, one officer of the Republican Guard and one servant girl.

Many members of the Chamber narrowly escaped from the violence of the infuriated mob. M. Herriot himself was obliged to flee in a motor-car and change his hotel, that in which he usually lives being threatened by a crowd so that he had to be guarded all night by police.

Early on Wednesday morning the Ministry of Home Affairs expressed special thanks to the Police for their heroic execution of their duties under excessively trying and dangerous conditions. "You were not fighting ordinary agitators," said the message "but revolutionaries. What we do is done for France."—Transocean Kuo Min.

A MOST TURBULENT NIGHT

("Daily Press" Special)

PARIS, FEBRUARY 7.

THE CAPITAL SPENT THE MOST TURBULENT NIGHT EVER WITNESSED SINCE THE WAR. THE REVOLUTIONARY MOOD HAS NOW SPREAD TO THE PROVINCES AND SERIOUS CLASHES ARE REPORTED FROM NANTES, NANCY AND EVEN ALGERS. THE CASUALTIES OFFICIALLY ARE GIVEN AS THREE DEAD AND 190 INJURED OF WHOM NINE ARE POLICEMEN. A FOREIGNER WAS KILLED BY A STRAY BULLET IN FRONT OF HIS HOTEL OPPOSITE THE PLACE DE LA CONCORDE. AT ABOUT ONE O'CLOCK ON WEDNESDAY MORNING THE POLICE WERE ABLE TO REMOVE THE BARRICADES AND DEBRIS OF KIOSKS WHICH HAD BEEN TURNED OVER, BUT THE DISORDERS CONTINUED AT THE RUE ROYALE.

FIRST AID AMBULANCES CONVEYED THE INJURED TO THEIR TEMPORARY STATION AT THE WELL-KNOWN CAFE WEBER, AND BONFIRES BROUGHT LIGHT ON THE SCENE. PREMIER DALADIER SHORTLY BEFORE MIDNIGHT MADE A STATEMENT TO THE PRESS DECLARING HIS APPEAL TO MAINTAIN ORDER AND COMPOSURE BEING FOLLOWED BY EX-SERVICE MEN, BUT CERTAIN ROYALIST HE SAID, INCITED THE CROWD TO VIOLENCE AND ATTEMPTED A COUP AGAINST THE REPUBLICAN REGIME CHARGING THE POLICE WITH REVOLVERS AND KNIVES.

IT HAS BEEN CLEARLY PROVED THAT AN ARMED ATTACK ON THE SECURITY OF THE STATE HAS BEEN ATTEMPTED. DALADIER FURTHER SAID THAT MEASURES HAVE BEEN TAKEN TO NIP THE ATTEMPT IN THE BUD. BITTER COMMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE BY THE "PARIS SOIR" THAT AT MIDNIGHT THE CHAMBER OFFERED A SPECTACLE OF THE GREATEST CONFUSION. NUMEROUS POSTERS WERE STUCK UP EVERYWHERE DENOUNCING JEWS AND FREE MASONS FOR THEIR ALLEGED SHARE IN THE LATEST SCANDALS. LORRIES WITH INFANTRY PULLED UP IN FRONT OF THE CHAMBER CORDONING ROUND THE AREA WHICH HAD BEEN PLUNGED INTO DARKNESS, THERE BEING 30,000 DEMONSTRATORS IN THE PLACE DE LA CONCORDE. BOTH THE DIRECTORS OF THE METROPOLITAN POLICE AND THE FAMOUS FLYING ACE MAJOR HEURTEAUX WERE SERIOUSLY INJURED. THE CROWD SHOUTED "SEND CHIAPPE TO JAIL" AND "SHOOT DALADIER TO DEATH."

POLICE DETERMINED

WHAT IN THE LAST TEN DAYS WERE MERELY DEMONSTRATIONS, HAS NOW BECOME SERIOUS STREET FIGHTING, AND TO COPE WITH THE SITUATION AT THE PLACE DE LA CONCORDE AND THE HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT, A LARGE NUMBER OF TROOPS IN CLOSE RANKS HAD TO BE USED AFTER DUSK OWING TO THE SITUATION BECOMING SO SERIOUS. A FURTHER 10,000 SIGHTSEERS FLOUED OUT FROM THE NEIGHBOURING BOULEVARDS ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF THE DEMONSTRATORS, AND GAILY CHEERED SETTING FIRE TO A HAPLESS MOTOR TRUCK. THE VICTORIOUS HOWL OF THE DEMONSTRATORS WAS MET BY THE COMBINED FORCES OF THE STATE WITH A DETERMINED CHARGE. THE POLICE WERE CLUBBED AND TRAMPLED ON TO SUCH PROPORTIONS THAT BEING CRITICALLY OUTNUMBERED THEY WERE FORCED TO OPEN FIRE. SHOTS INTO THE AIR ONLY BROUGHT HUNDREDS MORE INTO THE SQUARE, AND FINALLY THE POLICE FIRED ON THE ON-RUSHING CROWD, KILLING AND WOUNDING

"FARMING" SYSTEM IN CANTON

Causes Loss of Over One Million Dollars

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, February 7.
Reformation of the present taxation system by abolishing "farming" is being seriously considered by Mr. Ou Fang Pu, Provincial Commissioner of Finance, and this means that in the immediate future collection of all taxes will be undertaken directly by the Provincial Department of Finance.

The present "farming" system provides that all taxes are to be collected by a farming syndicate, who in turn pays a lump sum to the government. There is a small margin between the lump sum rendered to the government and the actual amount collected by the farmer, and this is a kind of commission to the tax collecting concern.

Such means of collection relieves considerable burden on the part of the government, although this indirect way of leaving revenue is antiquated and was scheduled to be abrogated by Mr. Fan Chi Wu, the former Commissioner of Finance. The "farmer" often proves to be unreliable and collects more money than he is allowed. Commissioner Ou Fang Pu is embarrassed by the recent embezzlement of public funds by the farming syndicates, for the estimated losses in this connection amount to over a million dollars. It is proposed that the expiration of the contract term the "farming" method will be abolished. At a start, the restaurant tax will be collected directly by the government agents.

Numerous complaints were filed by merchants that certain tax farmers oppressed them by taking a much heavier tax than the schedule as announced by the government authorities. Proposal for the abolition of the farming system will be shortly submitted to the Provincial Government for action, due sanction being anticipated.

HOME FOOTBALL

NORTH EAST WEST SOUTH

Result of Cup Ties

WEST HAM'S NARROW VICTORY

West Ham United beat Bradford City at Upton Park on Saturday by three goals to two, but the winners were the inferior side, being mastered on the finer points of the game and falling to live up to their reputation of Cup fighters.

Bradford City played fast and clever football, attacking by a definite plan and generally showing much more accuracy and method than did their opponents. Peel, a former Arsenal player, nominally appeared at inside-left, but he wandered about the field, picking up a loose ball and distributing passes with efficiency and speed. His thoughtful approach work was a feature of the match.

West Ham first took the lead after eight minutes' play, and each of their three goals was against the run of the play. Bradford City attacked persistently, whereas West Ham's efforts were merely spasmodic. Morton, West Ham's inside-right, was not in his usual form, and Watson had few opportunities to elude the vigilance of Peachey. The Bradford City backs were quite sound, and although Ruffell occasionally enlivened the game with a characteristic run, Tippet, on the opposite wing, wasted the best scoring chances of the match by slowness and indecision in front of goal. Rutherford was inclined to run out of his goal, but he made two remarkable saves, one from a splendid cross-drive by Watmough, the other from a short-range shot by Spence.

West Ham's first goal followed several attacks by Bradford City. Walker got a long clearance through to Tippet. The winger centred, and Goulden scored with a left-foot shot from the edge of the penalty area. Ruffell and Watson, the only players remaining with West Ham who took part in the first Cup Final at Wembley Stadium, put their side further ahead when Watson headed through from a centre by Ruffell. Hallows promptly replied for Bradford after Spence had shot against a post, but in the second half Watson scored again for West Ham and Spence got through for their opponents.

THE TEAMS WERE:—

West Ham United.—Rutherford, goal; Chalkley and Walker, backs; Anderson, Barrett, and Cockcroft, half-backs; Tippet, Morton, Watson, Goulden, and Ruffell, forwards.

Bradford City.—Warhurst, goal; Bignell and Barkas, backs; McLaren, Peachey, and Bauld, half-backs; Watmough, Hallows, Spence, Peel, and Ormandy, forwards.

ARSENAL'S LUCKY WIN

The Strength of Roberts. Arsenal beat Luton Town 2-1. Luton were unlucky losers, for during the greater part of the game they were the more dangerous side, and their football was always constructive. Their weakness, however, was in the centre-forward position, where Bell was completely subdued by Roberts, and was quite incapable of taking advantage of the opportunities created for him by his half-backs and inside forwards. It would therefore probably have been to their advantage had they developed their attacks on the wings, especially on the left, where Rennie and Hutchinson were too good for Jones and Male.

The home side's defence was very sound. In the half-back line Kean performed the difficult task of marking Bastin with great credit, and at the same time helped considerably in the attack. McGinnigle's marking of Dunne was very effective, and the goal which that player scored was certainly no fault of Luton's centre-half. Mackey was the best back on the field. He tackled cleanly, cleared quickly, and was very quick in covering mistakes made by his partner.

Arsenal owe their victory almost entirely to the strong defence of Roberts and to the cool scheming of Bastin, who was the only forward on the side to show his normal form. The remainder of the team appeared to be handicapped by an unfamiliar ground on which the spectators were packed close up to the touch-lines. Among the forwards, Beasley showed flashes of brilliance, but the play of Bowden and Coleman was characterized by wild kicking and an inclination to get rid of the ball before drawing the defence. John and Jones worked hard in defence, but rather neglected the attacking side of their duties, and, with Roberts, as usual, concentrating solely on marking the opposing centre-forward, there was very little constructive work carried out by the half-backs. Hapgood was sound, but Male was easily unsettled, and his clearing was hurried and erratic.

Luton attacked from the kick-off, and on several occasions good combination was spoiled by the inability of Bell to take his chances. Arsenal eventually counter-attacked, but Bowden missed an excellent opportunity of scoring by shooting feebly at the goalkeeper and half-time arrived with the score level, but with the home side on top.

Immediately after the interval a good combined movement on the Luton left wing resulted in Hutchinson placing a beautiful centre in front of the Arsenal goal. Bell, however, missed a good chance by being out of position, and Moss was able to clear. Arsenal then took up the attack, but several promising movements were ruined by weak finishing. About 10 minutes from the end Bastin's genius was rewarded. Receiving the ball from Jones on the half-way line, he bore over to the right hand, by marvellous control, dribbled to within five yards of the goal-line. Then, lifting the ball head high, he sent it across the goal, and Dunne merely had to place it into the net.

The teams were:—
Luton Town.—Harford, goal; Mackey and Klingham, backs; Fraser, McGinnigle, and Kean, half-backs; Hutchinson, Rennie (A.), Bell, Martin, and Pease, forwards.

Arsenal.—Moss, goal; Hapgood and Male, backs; John, Roberts, and Jones, half-backs; Beasley, Bastin, Dunne, Bowden, and Coleman, forwards.

OTHER CUP TIES

Few Surprises. The third round of the F.A. Cup did not yield any particular surprises, although there were some murmurings among the crowds all over the country as the half-time scores went up.—Cheltenham Town leading Blackpool, Bristol City leading Derby County, and Arsenal without a goal at Luton. In the end, however, Blackpool got three goals to Cheltenham's one, Derby, after over an hour's play, drew level with Bristol, who have every right to think of themselves as among the heroes of the day, while Arsenal got an all-important goal 10 minutes from the end.

There was no high scoring, only two sides scored as many as four goals, and the home sides had very much the better of the argument.—In fact, out of the 32 ties only five away teams won. Arsenal, Blackpool, Oldham Athletic, Preston North End, and Sheffield Wednesday. Rotherham, before a record of over 20,000, put up a plucky fight against Sheffield Wednesday, who take a lot of stopping at the moment. The victories of Oldham and Preston were unexpected. Reading were without Newton, their centre-forward, but they were ahead at half-time and their defence was proving itself fully equal to the demands the Oldham forwards made on it. In the second half, however, Reading lost some of their speed, and Oldham took the lead after 30 minutes and remained on top until the end.

One of the most exciting matches of the round was that between Plymouth Argyle and Huddersfield Town. Plymouth were better together than their opponents in the first half, and after 20 minutes, some clever work by Mackay led to Cookson scoring. At the beginning of the second half Huddersfield attacked strongly, but the Plymouth defence was sound and it was, for Huddersfield, perilously near the end of the match when it made its first and only mistake and let in McLean. Another club which must have been relieved to live again and fight on its own ground is Aston Villa. Chesterfield, who lead the Northern Section of the Third Division, are a formidable side on their own ground, and in the very first minute of the game they scored. Aston Villa, however, refused to be flustered and they kept to their normal game with the gratifying result that Cunliffe scored two goals for them in two minutes. The Aston Villa goal, however, had some narrow escapes in the second half and Mort made some splendid saves. Chesterfield did not deserve to be beaten and justice was done when Hughes equalized with a shot which went into the net off the post.

Fulham have every reason to be pleased with themselves for drawing with Liverpool, a team which was expected to go far in the competition this year. Fulham were quick off the mark and Finch, their outside-right, nearly scored in the first two or three minutes. Actually, however, Liverpool were the first to score, Hodgson shooting through with a magnificent drive from fully 30 yards range. Before half-time a centre from Finch paved the way to the goal for Lambert and there was no more scoring in a game

Plot To Kill Him In Dutch Indies

London, February 27.

The revelation of a secret hitherto only known to the British Consul and high officials in the Dutch East Indies discloses that Lord Allenby's recent sudden curtailment of his tour of the Dutch East Indies was occasioned by the discovery of a plot against his life.

Notification of the existence of the plot was given to the police authorities by the International Intelligence Department at Washington some days after Lord Allenby's arrival in Java following his tour of Malaya.

Personal descriptions of the three non-Dutch subjects involved were telegraphed and immediate measures were taken to ensure Lord Allenby's safety, but Lord Allenby, realising that he would be incessantly shadowed by an armed escort, changed his plans. He made a fictitious booking to fly to Belawan (?) and returned to Sumatra, whence he left for England on January 13.

Lord and Lady Allenby left England in December, the former stating that his visit was unofficial and that he was going purely for fun.

TRADE MARKS, PATENTS AND DESIGNS

Circumvention Of Japanese Boycott

The Manchester Chamber of Commerce is permitted by the Trade Marks, Patents and Designs Federation Ltd. to reprint the following extracts from the latest monthly reports issued by the Federation:—

"China.—Hong Kong dealers in Japanese white shirtings have discovered a new way in which to circumvent the Chinese boycott of Japanese cloth. It appears that they take a few yards of Lancashire white shirting from the top of a piece bearing the 'chop' and familiar blue stamping of the Lancashire bleachworks, and in this way they wrap thirty or forty yards of Japanese shirting. The piece is placed on the counter before the unsuspecting customer, and is offered for sale as 'English cargo,' but what the buyer actually receives is a quantity of Japanese cloth. In order to check this method Manchester shippers will be asked to stamp selvedge marks on every yard of white shirting. In this way it is hoped to put a stop to sales of this description."

which was a keen struggle from beginning to end.

London clubs had a good day, six of them winning outright; two, Chelsea and Fulham, drawing; and three, Brentford, Clapton Orient, and Queen's Park Rangers, being beaten. Queen's Park Rangers were beaten by Nottingham Forest by four clear goals. They were overrun in the first half, when Nottingham scored three times, but the other goal scored in the second half was against the run of the play. The biggest crowd of the day, 54,338 people, saw an excellent match between two First Division clubs, Manchester City and Blackburn Rovers. There was method in the football on both sides, and for 20 minutes or so there was little in it. At the end of that time Brook, the Manchester outside-left, scored with an unstoppable shot. Within 12 minutes Bruton equalized, but immediately afterwards Manchester thanks to Toseland, went ahead again. Blackburn did some attacking after the interval, but their shooting was not impressive, and the third goal Manchester scored before the end made the result a fair reflection of their superiority.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Rumjahn's Enter Second Round

A large crowd was present yesterday at the Hongkong Cricket Club ground to watch S. A. Rumjahn, singles title holder, in action against J. McDougall, whom he defeated in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4. Despite his victory, however, S. A. Rumjahn displayed form much below that expected of him, and was inclined to be erratic.

McDougall played a cool and steady game throughout and, although defeated, put up quite a creditable performance.

Matched against M. Drysdale, H. D. Rumjahn had an easy passage into the second round, winning by two love sets. The Rumjahn cousins will be pitched against each other in the next round. When the two met in last year's tournament, the issue was in doubt till the very last moment.

In view of the poor form shown by "S. A." yesterday, it is difficult to say whether he will repeat his win over his cousin this time, especially as "H.D." has shown improvement since last year's meeting, but a very close struggle should be the result.

In the other games, J. Leonard had the better of I. Tak Lam, and the veteran and ex-champion, S. E. Green, was evenly matched against M. Beach Thomas, but eventually lost by 6-4, 3-6.

Results.

Yesterday's results are as follows:—
S. A. Rumjahn beat J. McDougall 6-2, 6-4.
H. D. Rumjahn beat M. Drysdale 6-0, 6-0.
A.C.C. Myers beat R. B. Hambly 6-1, 6-2.
M. Beach Thomas beat S. E. Green 6-4, 8-6.
H. Y. Ho beat M. C. Hung 6-1, 8-6.
J. Leonard beat T. L. Tu 6-3, 6-4.

To-day's Programme. Some very good tennis should be seen to-day, both in the Singles and Doubles. A very good array of the better known players will be seen in action, and the doubles game between I.M.A. Razack and J. Cassumbhoy v. G.R.M. Ricketts and W. Beach Thomas should prove interesting. The following is the full programme:

Open Singles, C. A. Wright v. K. M. Wong; Ng Sze-kyong v. Lai Kwong-tsun; J. G. Haigh v. Tam Yee-tong; E. C. Fincher v. Y. C. Kwok; Tsui Wai-pui v. Chiu Chun-ching; Open Doubles, Luk Ding-cheung and W. T. Lee v. Luk Chun-cheung and Wong Shu-hing; I. M. A. Razack and J.A.E. Cassumbhoy v. G. R. M. Ricketts and W. Beach Thomas.

GERMANY LOOKS EASTWARD

Russia And Her Neighbours

The Soviet proposal that Soviet Russia and Poland should together guarantee their Baltic neighbours, Finland, Estonia, Lithuania, and Latvia against aggression from other quarters continues to be discussed with great interest in Germany.

This is not so much on account of its present practical importance, for the project is held to have fallen through for the moment, as of its relation to developments in the Far East. The relations between Russia and Japan, of whose military strength Germany is well informed, are being closely watched. The possibility of warlike developments between the two countries is one which is constantly discussed in German political and military quarters. It is well-known here that this possibility is among the main preoccupations of Moscow, and it is held to be the chief reason for the anxiety of the Soviet Government to safeguard the western frontiers against any threat from that direction.

Germany for her part disclaims all desire to "take advantage" of any developments on the eastern frontiers of Russia, and those reports were denounced as mischievous which suggested that Germany had offered Poland a pact of non-aggression and a free hand in the Ukraine in return for the rendition of the Corridor and a free hand along the Baltic coast.

It is recalled that Soviet Russia in 1933 concluded a system of non-aggression pacts with Poland, Finland, Estonia, Lithuania, and Latvia, and that these were afterwards strengthened by a strict definition of an "aggressor." There is but one hole in this system of non-aggression pacts, it is held—namely, that no provision was made for the event of an attack on any of the partners by an outside country. The Soviet proposal, it is considered, aimed at closing this gap by assuring the attacked country of the support of its partners; in other words, by expanding the partnership of non-aggression to one of military alliance. The whole incident is thought to point clearly to the grave misgivings of Soviet Russia about the intentions of Japan.

MUI FONG SCHOOL

Annual Prize Day

The annual prize day of the Mui Fong Girls' School was held at Tai Ping Theatre yesterday, Lady Southern distributing the prizes. There was a large gathering present, the theatre being practically filled, and among them were noticed the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau, Mr. R. C. H. Lim and Mr. Tang Shiu Kin.

After distributing the prizes, Lady Southern, in a few words, expressed her admiration of the efficiency and good work done by the staff and the students and congratulated them on the very successful year. "I wish them every success in the course of the education in Hong Kong," said Lady Southern.

London Air-Mail Letter

Father Of The Thames: A New York
Financier: Grounds For Divorce: Cambridge's University Library: Dickens' Documents: Signor Mussolini

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, January 17.
FONTANNIANA

I cannot remember the time when theatrical stars of such magnitude were in as close conjunction as are Miss Lynn Fontanne and Miss Elisabeth Bergner, who are playing in adjoining theatre in Shaftesbury-avenue.

While Miss Bergner is a complete newcomer, Miss Fontanne has had her share of the hopes and disappointments of the London stage. She began by walking on in Drury Lane pantomime.

Though she played a number of parts in London—and so enchanted Alfred Lunt in "My Lady's Dress" that he sought her out and married her—she had to go to America to achieve full recognition.

There she went right to the top of the theatrical tree. "Reunion in Vienna" seems certain to establish her at similar heights on this side. Unless one had her own word for it in "Who's Who in the Theatre," no one would credit the fact that she will be 52 on her next birthday.

SAFER TO STAND

A good story of Signor Mussolini, though possibly apocryphal, was told in one of the London Embassies the other day.

Delayed in a roadside village for more than two hours by the breakdown of his motor-car, he was persuaded to visit the local cinema.

Throughout a lurid triangle drama he sat without evincing the slightest interest.

When the news bulletin depicted him on the screen and the audience rose with shouts of "Viva il Duce" and "Viva Mussolini," he naturally remained seated.

Then came a gentle tap on his shoulder, and his neighbour whispered, "I quite agree with you, my friend, but it is safer to stand."

"POSTERITY PAPERS"

Among the nation's most tantalising possessions are the "posterity papers" in sealed packets in the British Museum.

The Dickens documents are now to be available, but it must be galling for the historian to reflect upon the other valuable papers which will be guarded jealously by the Museum until the dates appointed by the depositors.

The important Gladstone papers are reserved until 1940 or until the death of the present Lord Gladstone. Lord Morley and, more lately, Mr. Philip Guedalla have consulted them, but one may feel sure that their interest is by no means exhausted.

Most of the other sealed MSS. are letters written by, to, or about people who are still living. They will not be published during the lifetimes of the persons concerned. Among them are a substantial proportion of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's papers.

MR. CHURCHILL'S UNCENSORED TALK

The B.B.C. announcement that Mr. Churchill's broadcast tomorrow is to be uncensored marks a victory scored after a battle of correspondence.

I gather that it was first suggested by the B.B.C. that the talks should be censored.

But both Mr. Wells, the first speaker in the series, and Mr. Churchill protested vigorously against this restriction.

After some discussion they gained their point, and the censorship condition was waived.

It is curious that, while the politicians in this "Whither Britain?" series are understood to be unpaid, the other speakers will receive a fee.

It is stated that Mr. Wells received a fee in the neighbourhood of £100 for his excellent talk last Tuesday.

WHEAT CAMBRIDGE THINKS

Cambridge, which returns to work to-day, will find the tower of the new University Library building nearly complete.

Opinion among the dons of one of the bigger colleges fronting the "Backs" was definitely against this feature of the new building.

I have rarely heard such unanimity expressed at a high table in hall. This ceased very rapidly, and was only restored on the topic of the Boat Race, which, it was hoped, Oxford might just win.

"CORNER" IN OLD GLASS

Perhaps the finest private collection of glass in the country, the late Mr. Wilfred Buckley's is shortly to go to the Victoria and Albert Museum.

The Dutch pieces, in particular, are unrivalled. Mr. Buckley started would now be ludicrously small. The Queen, who has an expert knowledge of old glass, some years ago visited Moundsmeare Manor, Mr. Buckley's home near Basingstoke, to admire the treasures.

Mr. Buckley later showed me a rare piece which the Queen had presented to him after he had made her a gift from his collection.

DIVORCE FOR THE RICH ONLY
I see that 695 undefended petitions for divorce have been set down for hearing in the court which opens to-day.

There has been so much criticism of our present divorce laws that the sweeping reforms of the nineteenth century have been surprisingly overlooked.

In fact, until the Matrimonial Causes Act of 1857, which set up the Divorce Court, divorce was a laborious, costly and extremely rare procedure. The injured spouse had first to obtain a decree in the Ecclesiastical Courts, which corresponded to the modern separation and did not entitle the spouses to re-marry.

He had then to bring an action for damages against the co-respondent, and finally he had to obtain a private Act of Parliament.

It is obvious that such a procedure was a luxury, available only to the rich. Between 1715 and 1775 only sixty such divorces were obtained, while between 1775 and 1800 there were but seventy-four.

DAVID LAMAR'S LURID CAREER
The death of David Lamar, whose real name is believed to have been Lewis, Levy or Frankenstein, removes one of the most picturesque "financiers" who ever became notorious in New York.

With his diamond-studded walking stick, silk hat and braided frock-coat, he first appeared on the Wall Street scene at the beginning of the century. He lost no time in organising sensational raids against the United States Steel Corporation and other prominent companies.

He won the sobriquet, the "Wolf of Wall Street," soon after depriving Henry Hart, the president of a leading railroad company, of nearly a million pounds.

J. Pierpont Morgan, senior, characterised him as vermin at the time when his champagne suppers, coach and four, and daring coups were becoming famous.

IMPERSONATIONS AT CAPITOL
He once persuaded a Middle West senator to deliver a violent attack in the Senate on the United States Steel Corporation, and arranged himself to sell steel short heavily the same day. The senator was warned at the last minute, and threw his speech away.

Lamar frequently impersonated politicians at Washington, and is said to have taken his seat in Congress disguised as a representative. He was imprisoned in 1913, and never regained his old daring.

He fled to Mexico when indicted for conspiring to sabotage munitions during the war, and served his last term in prison last summer for defrauding a restaurant.

LORD DESBOROUGH AND THE THAMES
Whenever a water shortage threatens, Lord Desborough comes into the news.

He is almost the father of the Thames.

Apart from his being chairman of the Thames Conservancy Board since its foundation in 1910, his engagements on the river are legion. He has rowed on it, having been in two Oxford eights, punted on it, and, indeed, twice sunk in it.

Among the most famous of his many sporting exploits are those of stroking an eight across the Channel, of twice swimming the Niagara River, and three times climbing the Matterhorn. In a humble way, one of his feats with the punt-pole is equally remarkable.

Lord Desborough, who has been three times punting champion, was anxious on one occasion to establish an indisputable ascendancy over a somewhat self-confident rival. He used each end of his pole alternately to propel his punt, which is obviously a slower and more exhausting method than the usual one. But he won his race.

FOUR GIANT FLYING BOATS
The second of four giant flying-boats which are being built for the Royal Air Force by Messrs. Blackburn, at Brough, was successfully launched yesterday. An R.A.F. crew under Wing-Commander Andrews took the machine to Plymouth.

It has cost approximately £50,000, and is named Venture Far. It weighs 15 tons and it took off in 22 seconds.

TRAINING GALLOPS

BAY VIEW PROVES BEST IN "VIEW" STABLE

(BY "MORNING DEW")

There were quite a number of ponies clocked yesterday morning, but times were generally on the slow side. The "View Stable" sent five of their griffins over the mile and Bay View did a very nice gallop indeed, comparable to the best gallops of the season. In taking 2.09.3 for the full journey, the quarters respectively were 33.3, 33.2, 31.3 and 31.

This will bring Bay View into the front rank of Derby griffins. King's Warden and King's Worthy went over the full Derby distance in very slow time, but brought it to a close with a last quarter of 28.3 seconds.

New Star, who is now coming into the picture as a likely contestant for Derby honours, was sent over a mile and a half and although the full time was slow, the last quarter was encouraging. The pony finished fresh.

In the Australian Class the gallop of Bronze Era should be carefully analysed. The last mile was in 1.58.1.

Times were entirely on the slow side for subs, the only gallop worthy of attention is that of Racing Spirit who went over a mile in 2.19.3, finishing in 32.3.

PIRATES OF PENZANCE

Another Successful
Show

The Hong Kong Philharmonic Society again presented "The Pirates of Penzance" with much success yesterday at the King's Theatre when a large number of people attended the matinee performance. The dresses of the ladies were the subject of much admiration and Mrs. D. M. Richards and Mrs. A. W. Hayward are to be congratulated on making such a success of it.

The programme ladies did quite a good business and thanks of the Society are due to Messdames Holmes and Cornaby and the Misses Nichols, Henry, Cooper, Marsh and Churchill for helping in this direction.

We have been asked to state that there is a slight error in the programme and the name Mrs. N.
Mathieson and not Mrs. H. Mathieson should read against Ruth.

Britain's Views On Disarmament

Cheers greeted Captain Eden's declaration.
He emphasised that the Government was in full accord with the of first-rate importance to secure Germany's undertaking to return to Geneva and to re-join the League of Nations.

He concluded that they had asked the Government to accept these proposals with the least possible delay, because only by accepting them at the eleventh hour would the world gain the greatest benefit of statecraft, namely, a greater confidence between the peoples.

The Government motion for adjournment was agreed upon, and the debate concluded.—Reuter.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN BRITAIN

Registration For January

London, February 6.

The substantial increase in unemployment during January, which is recorded in figures issued by the Ministry of Labour, is mainly attributable to the increase in the number of unemployed during the month of January, but other factors have tended to add to the apparent increase.

To the extent of 23,000, the increase is wholly statistical and does not indicate that fewer situations are available. It is explained by the exceptionally large increase in the number of juveniles leaving school and registering themselves as applicants for work.

In 1919 the birth rate was high and children of that year are now industrial recruits. In the normal course, these children will get situations during a month or two.
The return shows that the increase in the number of registered

SOCIALIST PAPER'S WARNING

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily
Press" (Copyright).)

Paris, February 7.
The Socialist paper, Populaire, sounds a rally to all members of the Socialist Party to assemble in the Place de la Bastille on Thursday at 7 p.m. when a great proclamation will take place against "an attempt of Fascist reactionaries to seize power."

The Populaire continues that all day on Wednesday efforts will be made to reach agreement among all proletarian parties—that is, Socialists, Communists and Trade Unionists—about a common plan of action.—Trans-ocean Kuo Min.

DOLLFUSS GOES TO BUDAPEST

Minister, Dr. Hornbostel, left by forenoon. The Hungarian Minister in Vienna travelled to Budapest by the same train.—Trans-

"A GOVERNMENT OF BLOOD"

SEVERAL LATER THE CROWD BREAKING THROUGH THE CORDON SET FIRE TO ONE OF THE MINISTRY BUILD-INGS, AND TOOK UP A VERY MENACING ATTITUDE.
WHEN THE FIRE BRIGADE ARRIVED THE POLICE HAD TO CHARGE REPEATEDLY IN ORDER TO KEEP THE NARROW AREA FREE FOR THE FIRE FIGHTERS. VIOLENT CLASHES
TOOK PLACE AND THERE WERE MANY WOUNDED IN FRONT OF THE CITY HALL.

THE CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES WAS PRACTICALLY IM-PRISONED WITHIN THE BUILDING FOLLOWING A CLOSED
SESSION AS THE POLICE WERE UNABLE TO GUARANTEE
THE LIVES OF MEMBERS, WHILE OVER SIXTY WOUNDED
OFFICIALS WERE CARRIED INTO THE HISTORICAL HALLS
FOR EMERGENCY TREATMENT.—TRANSOCEAN KUO MIN.

A NIGHT OF BLOODSHED

Paris, February 7.
After a night of riots and bloodshed the Concorde "battlefield" was strewn with iron bolts, bricks and iron piping which were used by the rioters, who according to the Prefect of Police numbered 50,000. Debris, bonfires and gutted motor cars testify to the fierceness of the riot while a twisted mass of wreckage is all that remains of the many kiosks in the Boulevard des Capucines. The Ministry of Foreign Affairs is now guarded by a company of Colonial Infantry.

All newspapers reflect on the tense excitement evoked by the riot, declaring that the presence of Communists among the demonstrators contributed greatly to the violence manifested.—Reuter.

BLOOD FLOWS FREELY

Paris, February 7.
Blood flowed freely in Paris yesterday evening when rioting mobs surged towards the Chamber of deputies as the Daladier Government, in one of the most exciting political fights in the history of France, battled its way to victory by gaining a vote of confidence.

Rioting began at dusk, when the crowds who were utterly beyond control, overwhelmed the police stationed in the Place de la Concorde and wrecked the kiosks and tobacco shops and set fire to motor-buses and private cars.

MANY CASUALTIES REPORTED

Many casualties are reported, including one woman, who was killed when the police were compelled to fire on the rioters who had reached the railings of the Chamber of Deputies, where the Government was virtually in a state of siege. Nobody was allowed to leave the building, although a number of wounded people were taken in.

Seven people have been killed and 400 injured in the Paris demonstrations.
The Chamber of Deputies last night passed a vote of confidence in the Daladier Government by 300 votes to 217.

Two battalions of French infantry, dressed in horizon blue, were stationed in front of the chamber of Deputies, at 11 o'clock, last night. The troops were given rations, and apparently ordered to remain on duty all night.

Police stationed on the Concorde Bridge opened fire with revolvers when the crowd drove them back a few paces.

Fierce fighting continued in the Place de la Concorde. Six charges by mounted Republican Guards occurred within half an hour.

GUARDS WITH SPLIT HEADS
A Reuter correspondent counted at least 15 Guards with their heads split open by the mob, who are using stones and sticks.

The crowd are fighting like demons, returning the attack whenever they are driven back.
Fighting later became partly a riot, chiefly between exservicemen and the Republican Guard.

The former arrived at 9.40 p.m. with their flag flying at the head.
Fierce hand to hand fighting immediately broke out. Two fire-hoses were played on them, but they would not be driven back.

Two motor buses are still burning in the Place de la Concorde, which is covered with hats, clothing, shoes and broken glass, while amidst the shouting and clatter of hooves and sound of blows a strange hissing is discernible, caused by gas escaping from broken lamps.

An attempted Coup de Force against the Republican regime by certain political leagues, is M.
Daladier's description of the rioting in a manifesto issued last night.

It states that Bands of men,
armed with revolvers and knives,
assaulted the police and Guards,
and the identity of the arrested men proves that it is an armed attempt against the safety of the State.

Thanks to the courage and sangfroid of the defenders, the objectives of the trouble-makers have not been attained.

POLITICAL TEMPERATURE AT FEVER POINT

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily
Press" (Copyright).)

Paris, Feb. 6.
With political temperature at fever point Premier Daladier faced the Chamber on Tuesday afternoon to make his bid for a vote of confidence and public approval of the most thorough administrative house cleaning which the Third Republic has known since the Panama scandal. The Premier lost no time in challenging the Chamber by staking the fate of his Cabinet on the motion that all interpellations except those by the deputies Dommage, Ybarbary, and Franklin Bouillon, as well as that by Communist party be postponed. The daylong move proved successful as the Chamber acquiesced in the motion by 300 votes to 217, the first round thus going to the Government.

In the opening passage of his ministerial declaration the Premier concisely summarized the situation produced by the Stavisky scandal by saying "It is one month since a scandal which has arisen from some individual failings, has paralysed the work of the Chamber, intensified political strife, de-moralised the whole country, and given the opponents of the present regime the welcome opportunity to renew the attacks which in the past have been felled by the vigilance of the Republicans."

Daladier appealed to the House not to waste time in waiting for further scandals and rumours to be exploited, but to resume the work of solving the most pressing problems, such as passing the budget and affording protection to small depositors. In conclusion the Premier touched shortly on the international situation stressing that France's foreign Policy could be summarised in a few words, namely international co-operation and national defence, faith in the League of Nations and in France's tried and true friends.

THUNDEROUS EXCHANGES

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily
Press" (Copyright).)

Daladier's passage to the Rostrum and opening words evoked cat calls from the Right benches and determined applause from the Left which was soon outdone by thunderous exchanges between the Socialists and Communists which threatened to turn into a hand to hand combat. The Premier was able to complete his declaration only after a short adjournment of the session. Far more exemplary order was maintained outside the building by heavily increased squadrons of both mounted and regular police. Army garrisons throughout the city stood by a moment's notice, while all flights of aeroplanes over the city were prohibited both in the afternoon and evening.

Daladier showed sensitiveness to political winds by yielding to the first storm of protest aroused by the shifting of the inconvenient director of the Security police Thome, to the post of Fabre, the enormously popular director of the Comedie Francaise. Fabre was "provisionally" reinstated to directorship on Monday.—Transocean Kuo Min.

QUESTION OF CONFIDENCE

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily
Press" (Copyright).)

Paris, February 6.
Daladier followed up his first victory in the Chamber by putting the question of confidence on motion to postpone all interpellations, which brought Tardieu to his feet in protest. Neither Tar-dieu nor Communist Deputy who joined in protest, however, were able to make themselves heard in the uproar from the Left benches.
The disorder was silenced by the Governmental motion to close the debate which was carried to take a vote by roll-call on the motion to postpone all interpellations.—

CHINA OPIUM SHIP

Plans For Salvage Of Historic Vessel.

As was anticipated, the extraordinary success of the Italian salvors in recovering gold from the liner Egypt has resulted in plans for the salvage of a historic vessel. The ship, which was started all over the world with varying prospects of success, but by far the most interesting under way at the present time in the expedition which an American enthusiast, Mr. Van Arsdale, is understood to be fitting out at Calcutta.

Somewhere off the delta of the Hugli is the wreck of the historic steamer Thunder, and if she can be located and reached, the booty ought to be well worth while. She was a ship which created a great sensation when she was built on the Thames, at Deptford, in 1859, for her trial speed of 17 land miles was a record, and made the reputation of her builders. She wanted all of it, however, for she had been ordered by Mr. Arratoon Apar, one of the biggest native merchants in India, whose business was absorbed by the British India Lines, to carry opium between Calcutta and China.

The opium ships ran as much risk from pirates as they did from the local authorities, and speed was a great asset. She was only a small ship rather more than 1,000 tons, but that she was seaworthy was shown by the fact that she survived the famous Calcutta cyclone of 1864, which wrecked so many famous steamers and sailing ships. But three years later she was caught in one that was still worse, and she was approaching the Hugli, and went down with all hands.

Two years afterwards the wreck was washed on to a sandbank some considerable distance from the spot where she had foundered but with the ever-changing chart in those waters it went back into the depths almost immediately, before any steps could be taken.

At the time of the disaster the Thunder was returning from an opium-selling expedition to China, and that business was conducted on a strict cash basis. But the cash payment was in the coins of all nations and all ages, the gold, silver, and copper being weight only, so that in addition to the actual sun which is known to be on board with tolerable certainty, there is a good chance of very valuable collectors pieces being found among it.
